NEW SHORTAGES IN WASHINGTON BANK; TWO OUT

DEFICIT FOLLOWS FIRE

OTHER DUE TO ERROR

President Quick Declares Discharges Are Not Caused by the Discrepancies.

National bank examiners were at the Washington National Bank, Seventh and Pine streets, Monday, making an investigation in connection with the shortage of $5921.44 charged against Wann V. Teasdale, paying teller, and other deficits on account of which two other bank employes are out.

Leon W. Quick, president of the bank and City Treasurer, refused either to deny or affirm when asked, by a Post-Dispatch reporter whether the inspectors were present.

Mr. Quick admitted that an inquiry is being made into what seems to the officers to be an additional shortage of $900, due to a mistake in boookkeeping.

Mrs. C. M. Warren, a widow living at 3606 Delmar boulevard, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday afternoon that she did most of her banking at the Washington National Bank. Her method, she said, was to present her checks to Cashier Franklin P. Jones for his O K and then get the cash from Teasdale.

She said that Mr. Jones had been her business adviser since her husband's death, and that previous to that time he was a close friend of Mr. Warren.

There was some slight trouble about her checks, she said, but it has all been settled.

Cashier to Remain.

A Post-Dispatch reporter asked President Quick whether Jones would resign. Quick replied that Jones would remain with the bank as cashier. However, there are persistent rumors that Jones is to be replaced by William P. Samuel, who is ostensibly to become assistant cashier of the bank Tuesday. Samuel was formerly an employe in the City Treasurer's office.

Jones was connected with the defunct Denver Savings Bank, according to dispatches from Denver, and was indicted for receiving money after the institution was known to be insolvent. He was not prosecuted on the charge.

The other shortage, of which Mr. Quick would not define the amount, but light after a mysterious fire which broke out in the bank one night last September, and which is said to have destroyed the alphabetical list of deposits from O to Z.

The $900 shortage is due to a bookkeeper's error. Two men of the same name had accounts in the bank. One had a balance of $2.50, when the other came into the bank and deposited $900. This amount was erroneously credited to the man whose balance was $2.50, and the bank lost the money.

The fire not only consumed one of the depositor's ledgers, but some passbooks and, it is thought, several checks. A duplicate ledger was prepared by subtracting each depositor's cash balance on hand from the amount he was credited with before the fire. When the final tally was made a discrepancy was found between the cash and the amount credited to depositors in the new ledger. The evidence as to the origin of this discrepancy was destroyed in the fire.

Fire Started in Books.

"I can say nothing as yet concerning the shortage caused by the fire," said Mr. Quick Monday. "I have never been able to discover how the fire originated. It was started at 7:30 p. m. among the books, when there was no one in the bank, so far as I have been able to learn, except a scrubwoman.

"A police sergeant notified me at 9:30 p. m. at a Masonic meeting which I was attending."

The two employes who are out are Stephen King, former receiving teller, and John Wahlman, a bookkeeper. Mr. Quick declined to state why their connection with the bank was severed, but declared they had no relation to either of the three shortages.

Denies Current Rumors.

President Quick vigorously denied the rumor current in financial circles that there is soon to be a thorough reorganization of the personnel of the bank.

"That is untrue," he exclaimed, "and I am surprised that so many absurd rumors have been spread.

"Teasdale's defense that the methods of bookkeeping in the Washington National Bank are lax," continued President Quick "is ridiculous. It is not true that our employes were instructed to take chances with dubious paper to attract customers.

"It is also absurd for him to say that there was no system by which he could check off the bookkeeper's statement against hers."

Less Impossible, He Says.

What about Teasdale's statement that if a bookkeeper lost same of the items charged against him he would

SHERIFF, WHO FAILED TO SAVE NEGRO, SENTENCED

Chattanooga Official Gets 90 Days From the United States Supreme Court.

DID NOT STOP MOB

OTHERS PUNISHED, TOO

Jailer Gets 60 Days and Men in Mob Also Sent to a Cell at Washington.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Ninety-days' imprisonment was imposed today upon ex-Sheriff Joseph F. Shipp of Chattanooga, Tenn., by the Supreme Court of the United States for contempt of court in failing to prevent the lynching of a negro, Ed Johnson, convicted of assault, but whose execution had been stayed by the Court.

Luther Williams and Nick Nolan were also sentenced to imprisonment for 90 days for connection with the lynching, and Jeremiah Gibson, the jailer, Henry Padgett and William Mayers, all of Chattanooga, for 60 days.

Second Case of Kind.

This was the second time in the history of the Supreme Court of the United States that it imposed a sentence upon citizens, held guilty of disregarding its mandates. The previous occasion was in another generation.

The case today originated in the court's decision in March, 1906, to consider the appeal of Johnson, from a verdict of the Tennessee courts holding him guilty and sentencing him to be hanged on a charge of assault. The night after the determination of the Supreme Court to review the proceedings was wired to Chattanooga, a mob stormed the jail, took the prisoner out, and lynched him.

Commented on Interview.

The Court, in finding Shipp guilty, commented on a published interview alleged to have been had with Shipp. "The people of Hamilton County were willing to let the law take its course until it became known that the case would not probably be disposed of for four or five years by the Supreme Court of the United States," it quoted Shipp as saying: "But the people would not submit to this, and I do not wonder at it."

Chief Justice Fuller, in pronouncing Shipp guilty, said that this reference to "people" was significant, "for he was a candidate for re-election and had been told that his saving the prisoner from the first attempt to mob him would cost him his place, and he had answered that he wished the mob had got him before he did."

The Court held that Gibson must have believed a mob would attack the jail the night Johnson was lynched, but although he was in charge of the jail more than two hours before its arrival, he made no effort to summon assistance to repel the attack.

John D. Jr., Leads Bible Class.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. temporarily took the leadership yesterday of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. Except at infrequent intervals, Mr. Rockefeller has not led the class since his resignation in 1907. He is still vice-president of the class.

100 BODIES FOUND IN CHERRY MINE; RELATIVES FIGHT TO REACH SHAFT

General view of the crowd at mine, wrecked suction fan that caused many deaths and inspectors donning ozygen helmets to enter the mine.

RESCUERS DRIVEN BACK BY SMOKE; 300 ARE GIVEN UP

No Signs of Life Found by Men Who Are Unable to Penetrate Any Distance.

FAN STARTED TO CLEAR SHAFT OF DEADLY FUMES

Preparations Completed for Bringing Bodies to Surface as Soon as Men Can Breathe Underground — Undertakers Are in Readiness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 15.—One hundred bodies were found by rescuers in the St. Paul Coal Co.'s mine today and the work of taking them to the surface was immediately begun. Though 50 deputies have been sworn in by the Sheriff, relatives and friends of the dead men fought furiously to reach the scene when it became known that bodies were soon to be taken out.

All hope that any of the 300 men who were in the mine when the shafts were closed Saturday night are alive has been abandoned.

To induce the crowd to disperse, officials and State mine inspectors announced that the mine was still on fire and that the seals would be put over the pit mouths again.

Rescuers, equipped with oxygen helmets and all the paraphernalia used in mine rescue work, who entered the mine today, declared that the mine was still on fire and caving in in many places. They were unable to penetrate more than a few feet from the main shaft in the second vein. Their equipment was useless in the smoke and gas choked chambers.

That every bit of life-giving air had been exhausted many hours ago was declared certain.

Three descents were made, but no sign of life was seen, and the rescuers declared that no life could exist for hundreds of feet beyond the shaft entrance. A few miners' caps and lamps were seen—tragic tokens of the first rush for safety by the miners who escaped, but no bodies were found.

This indicated to the rescuers that when the miners realized that they were penned hopelessly in a pit from which there was no exit they rushed to the furthermost end of the vein, where some air might be found that would keep them alive till help came.

Frantic protests against the action of the State Commission in ordering the sealing up of the entrance grew greater as the hours passed after the work was done. Despite the expostulation of the relatives of the imprisoned ones, experienced mine workers asserted that it was the only way to end the fire and afford any hope of escape to those within.

Last Vestige of Hope Left, Says Miner, When Shafts Were Sealed

A special train with supplies and officials arrived this afternoon from Chicago. On the train were George S. Rice, chief of the field of the United States Geological Survey; J. W. Paul, in charge of the Government's mine rescue work; F. F. Morris, assistant, all of Pittsburg; Illinios State Mine Inspectors W. W. Williams of Litchfield, Thomas Little of Murphysboro and James O'Conner, field commissioner for the Illinois Coal Operators' Association.

The train brought a rescue supply from the Government stores, including four oxygen helmets, resuscitating apparatus and 200 feet of oxygen. Mr. Rice said although the Government's minue rescue work was more in the nature of lending assistance and offering advice, the Federal officials on the ground were prepared to do any work required.

Ereident Chard Newsam of the State Commission, who was on the ground yesterday, declared he would have prevented the futile attempt of Supt. Bundy and others to enter the mine immediately after the explosion. He asserted that even at that time any chance of escape by the main shaft was impossible.

To the throngs about the entrance today State Mine Inspector Taylor said a small supply of air probably still existed in the mine, and that it was a fighting chance for those within. This was denied by miners who inspected the openings yesterday.

Acting Chief of Police McFadden, for years a miner, and one of the last men to leave the mine alive, reluctantly said that with the closing of the shaft Saturday night, the last vestige of hope for the entombed men had vanished.

Late last night the air shaft, the only opening beside the hoisting shaft, was hermetically sealed. From the time the descent to the second vein was made by men in buckets, a force of laborers worked until near midnight covering up the entrance with layers of heavy plank and sand. Athwart the opening of the hoisting shaft, on the top, lies a pile of planks three feet high, and tons of sand make the seal practically air tight.

All night a few of the anxious men and women surrounded the openings of the mine. The women complained bitterly, as the sealing of the shaft seemed to cut off all air. While it was true that the air would be shut off, mining officials declared that the men, if alive, would not be affected by the total sealing, except that it would probably put an end to the are still smoldering in the timbers and thus leave more necessary oxygen for the men.

David Ross, secretary of the State Labor Commission, who arrived here yesterday, declared last night it was extremely improbable any one would be found living. Richard Newsam, president of the State Mining Board, said that it would be a miracle if one man had been spared.

Yesterday's attempts to send men to the bottom proved futile, because they could not reach a foothold at the entrance of the gallery from the buckets in which they were lowered.

Under direction of James Taylor, State Mine Inspector of the Third District, and President Newsam, the regular cage will be lowered. It fits the shaft like a piston and the persons it will carry can step from it into any gallery entrance.

Mrs. Fanny Buck, wife of J. P. Buck, chief clerk of the mine, has organized the women of the little town of Cherry into a society to extend relief and comfort to those needing it. At present there is no destitution and the families of the women whose sons, husbands and fathers are buried 400 feet in the earth, is more in evidence than any physical want.

A party of nurses from Chicago, who arrived last night, today turned into comforters of the families probably bereft. Throughout the little hamlet and scattered cottages in various stages of completion. Families of men entombed are living in the small houses with needing glass for all the windows. It seems likely that many of the cottages never will be finished.

COURT DECIDES ZACH TINKER MUST SERVE JAIL SENTENCE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—The Louisiana Supreme Court this afternoon affirmed the decision of the lower court in contempt proceedings against Zach W. Tinker of St. Louis, president of the Security Brewing Co. of New Orleans, and also against George P. Blaise, secretary of the company.

This means that Messrs. Tinker and Blaise must serve jail sentences, to be imposed later, unless the United States Supreme Court reverses the verdict.

Tinker and Blaise were declared in contempt for refusing to turn over the accounts and papers of the brewing company to John McGraw, the company's receiver.

DOCTOR'S BREATH SAVES CHILD NEARLY DEAD

Little One Unconscious After Pepper-Box Top Had Stopped Up Throat.

By blowing his own breath into the lungs of Margaret Dwyer, 18 months old, Dr. Joseph Hardy of 7620 South Broadway restored the child's respiration and brought her back to consciousness after it was believed she had choked to death.

Margaret is the daughter of William and Catherine Dwyer of 8420 Michigan avenue. She was playing in the kitchen Sunday night. While her mother's back was turned the child took a pepper shaker from the table, unscrewed the top, removed it from the shaker and put it in her mouth.

Picking up the child, Mrs. Dwyer ran to Herman Bros.' drug store at 8800 South Broadway. Emergency treatment was unavailing, and Dr. Hardy was summoned. When he arrived the baby's face had turned blue and she apparently was near death. After trying unsuccessfully to remove the obstruction with instruments, Dr. Hardy forced his thumb and forefinger down Margaret's throat and dislodged the cover.

Respiration Cut Off.

The child's respiration had then been cut off so long that she did not revive when the obstruction was removed.

The physician saw that the air in her lungs had been exhausted, and that she was too weak to inhale a fresh supply. No pulse nor heart beat could be felt.

Dr. Hardy placed a piece of antiseptic gauze over the child's mouth. Then he put his mouth close to hers and exhaled the air from his own lungs. After doing this for nearly five minutes there was a fluttering movement of Margaret's eyelids, and in half an hour she was fully conscious.

Monday Margaret was very much alive, her only ailment being the laceration of her throat caused by the forcible removal of the obstruction.

LABOR CHIEFS' PLEA FOR A STAY IS DENIED BY COURT

Mandate Will Issue Saturday Unless Notice of Appeal Is Previously Given.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia today denied an application made by counsel for Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, sentenced to jail for contempt, for a stay in the issuance of the mandate to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia until Jan. 2, 1910.

Unless notice of an appeal is given before next Friday night the mandate will be handed down Saturday.

Gompers Silent on Strike.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 15.—President Gompers declined today to discuss the action of the Philadelphia Central Labor Union, favoring a two-weeks' general strike throughout the country as a protest against the imprisonment of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison, the strike to begin on the day the labor leaders are imprisoned.

HERMAN RIDDER PREPARES TO RUN BY INAUGURATING ANANIAS CLUB WITH CANNON

"They say Roosevelt is getting ready to run for the presidency in 1912," said the Official Observer of Signs and Portents, "and I think it must be true, since Herman Ridder of New York is laying his fences to capture the Democratic nomination by imitating Roosevelt."

"What do you mean by that?" asked the Innocent Bystander.

"Well, Mr. Ridder has started his club."

"Oh, you mean he's begun to use the Big Stick?"

"No: I'm talking of his Liars' Club. He's put on 'Uncle Joe' Cannon as the first charter member, you know."

VON BUELOW'S COUSIN MISSING; WIFE A NEGRESS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—Baron Edward von Buelow, first cousin of the recent Chancellor of Germany, and who has lived here about fifteen years, was reported missing this morning by his wife. When he left home 10 days ago he carried a revolver with him and Mrs. von Buelow believes he committed suicide.

Von Buelow's wife is an octoroon and recently he was arrested for violating a retroactive law which forbids such marriages in Louisiana. Mrs. von Buelow is a handsome woman and apparently of pure Caucasian blood, but admits her father was a quadroon.

Recently Dr. E. M. Koelle, president of a church board here and prominent professionally, was arrested for the alleged abduction of von Buelow's daughter. Koelle filed a counter charge and von Buelow disappeared. The von Buelow family had been received in white society here up to the time of the exposure relative to the color of the Baron's wife.

COL. CHASE NO LONGER WITH THE KANSAS RAILWAY PROJECT

Col. W. H. Chase is no longer connected with the St. Louis & Kansas City Electric Railway Co. in an official capacity. The company has moved its offices to Kansas City, and has elected new officers, with D. C. Nevin as president. The name of Col. Chase does not appear in the list.

Col. Chase is too ill to be seen, but a close friend Monday told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he has no connection with the company.

Col. Chase's offices in the new National Bank of Commerce Building were vacated two weeks ago. The company's business had been moved to Kansas City two weeks before.

The capital stock of the St. Louis & Kansas City Electric Railway Co. has been increased from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 and land is now being purchased through the State for a right of way.

At 4917 McPherson avenue, the home of Col. Chase, it was stated Monday that he is suffering from walking typhoid fever and has been ill for six weeks. He could not be seen.

EILERS HINTS AT GRAFT; SUGGESTS A THIRD PARTY

Delegate Believes Some Members of House Are Unfit.

There are members of the House of Delegates who are not fit persons to be there, is the belief of Roy Eilers, Republican member of the House from the Twenty-seventh Ward, expressed to the members of the Self Culture Association in a lecture on sanitary bills Sunday night.

"The only way to solve the problem of good citizenship is to elect men to office who cannot be bought," he said. "If we find that the Republican party, as well as the Democratic party, has become polluted with crooks and has become so rotten that neither is fit for government, let a third party be formed."

Mr. Eilers created surprise when he made the statement that any man found at a polling place for the purpose of voting more than once should be shot.

"Repeating is worse than bribery or treason," he stated with emphasis.

In speaking of bribery again the speaker said:

"Do you blame the young man who, after 10 years of hard and conscientious labor, has saved probably $2000 or $3000, is elected to office as an honest man—a people's man—to find himself approached by some rascal who has a bill to get through and offers the young man say $25,000 to get it through? The young man probably takes it. And why? Because the temptation is so great.

"I can't tell you how great is the temptation in the House of Delegates. It is sometimes overwhelming."

ST. LOUISAN IS ARRESTED IN INDIANAPOLIS FOR SWINDLE

Press dispatches Monday told of the arrest of a young man describing himself as Shirley Dean of St. Louis, at Indianapolis, on a charge of passing worthless checks. He says he is a son of Cyrus F. Dean of 768 Clara avenue, St. Louis.

When he was taken into custody Dean had several blank checks on banks in St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Toledo and other cities, in his possession. He confessed to the police that he had received about $200 on fraudulent checks in Indianapolis.

His arrest was caused by a druggist to whom Dean telephoned to send some medicine to his room and change for $30, as he had no change smaller than that. The boy who delivered the medicine and change, $18.10, received a sealed envelope from Dean. Seregant of Police Larsh stepped up and took the envelope from the boy. It contained a check for $20 on the American National Bank, indorsed by "Arthur James."

Dean was arrested and gave the name of Arthur James. He later admitted his real identity and told the police of his travels about the country. He had been educated in an Eastern university, he said, and is a chauffeur and expert mechanic. He is 22 years old, and was well dressed.

Cyrus F. Dean, who is a draftsman in the office of Mauran, Russell & Gardner, said Monday that the man under arrest probably was his son, but said he knew nothing of his business affairs or experiences with bogus checks. He said his son had not notified him that he was in trouble.

INDICTMENT AGAINST BANKER DISMISSED ON TECHNICALITY

Judge Hugo Grimm, in the Criminal Court Monday, sustained a demurrer to the indictment against Henry N. Barckers, charged with forgery and obtaining money by false pretense in connection with the defunct People's Bank of Benbow City, Ill. Barckers and John S. Guhman were charged with aiding Stephen N. Moore, the president-cashier clerk-janitor of the bank, who alleged that the institution was robbed last summer by men who used red pepper to frustrate possible pursuit by bloodhounds.

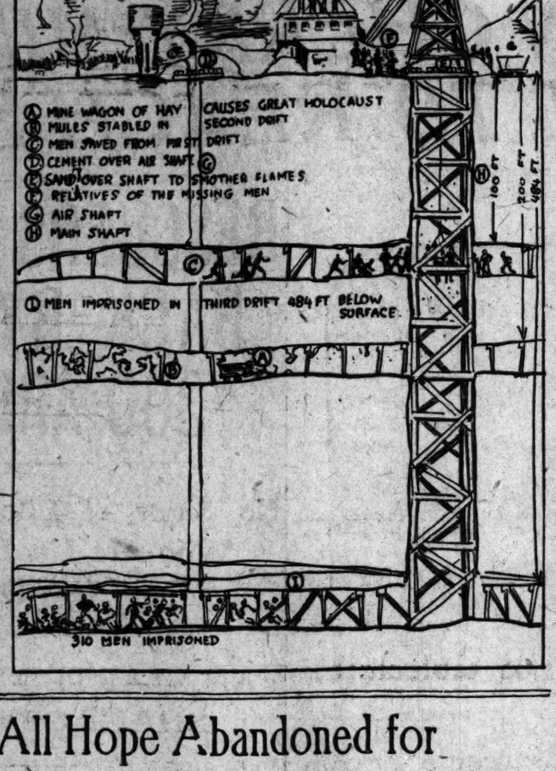

The demurrer was based on the omission from the indictment of the words "by reason of such false pretenses." Barckers was liberated, but the State will file an amended indictment against him. There are five charges against Barckers.

Moore is the chief witness against Barckers and Guhman, but he was not in court. When his case was called two weeks ago he failed to appear and his bond was declared forfeited.

DIAGRAM SHOWING HOW 400 MEN WERE TRAPPED IN CHERRY MINE

All Hope Abandoned for Hundreds Buried in Mine

removal of the numerous bodies. President Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will share the burial expenses of the more needy families, at least, and offers of aid have come from the more prosperous inhabitants of Cherry.

Neither the miners nor officials think there is a chance that the men below are alive. Rumors that a shot was heard beneath the surface and that rappings on pipes had been used to indicate the entombed miners were living, were declared absurd.

J. P. Buck, chief clerk of the St. Paul Coal Co., employed about the mine for 30 years, asserted no revolver shot could have been heard or felt at the surface. Other officials declared that the explosion of a stick of dynamite would be unlikely anyway and that it would serve, if it occurred, to lessen the chances of the men's surviving.

As proof of the lack of hope held by President Earling, seven special funeral cars were brought to Cherry this morning. These cars were backed up near the mine. Early today relatives of the buried men, miners and villagers, gathered around the hoisting shaft.

In the soreness of their hearts, many of the supposedly bereaved have condemned the action of the officials in closing the only openings of the mine, but it is declared the officials took the only course open to them.

William Vickers, who was at work at the face of the coal mine, was one of the few who came out alive. For over 200 yards he crawled in the dark on hands and knees, using the rail as a guide to the bottom of the shaft. At one point, he says, he met about 65 miners sitting in a row along the road who had given up the struggle and were waiting resignedly for death.

"I and my buddy (partner) were at work on the second vein level when the alarm of fire was sounded," said Vickers. "We started for the bottom, but had gone but a few feet when our lights went out. The entry was fast filling with smoke, which stung our eyes and made us gasp for breath.

"Several times we attempted to light our lamps without success. All about us we could hear shouts of our comrades in adjoining rooms, who, like ourselves, had been left in the dark. Calling to my buddy, I warned him to get close to the roadbed, and I myself dropped to my hands and knees and began to brawl along the rails, shouting at intervals to my buddy to let him know where I was.

Comrades Resigned to Death.

"At one point we passed about 65 miners sitting by the roadside almost in a stupor. I tried to rouse them and encourage them to go on, but they seemed to have given up all hope, and did not stir. I had no time to lose, and continued on, expecting to send back relief from the shaft. The sight of my doomed comrades is something that will haunt me to my dying day.

"When within 100 feet of the mine mouth I began to grow faint from the effects of the smoke and exhaustion. The smoke was growing more dense every foot I progressed and my courage was fast ebbing. I pulled my coat closely about my face and, bending closely to the rail, I struggled on.

"I escaped death by just three minutes. When I arrived at the bottom of the shaft the last cage was about to ascend. I shouted as the signal bell was ringing and two men broke their way to me and dragged me to the cage. I then lost consciousness and when I came to I was safely on top.

"My buddy had followed closely all the way out, and encouraged by the light held by the cage man, managed to reach the shaft and was carried with me to safety."

Saved by Tobacco Bag.

A tobacco bag was the means of saving the lives of John Phillips and Edward Surrock, miners on the second vein. Phillips, on his way to the shaft, found Surrock lying on the track in the main entry way. He dragged the form of his comrade until he himself was almost overcome by the smoke that filled his lungs with every breath.

With a miner's intuition, he searched for something to cover his nose and mouth. The only thing available was the small sack in which he carried his tobacco. Taking it from his pocket, he emptied the contents and then, placing one end in his mouth, he pulled the rest of it over his nose and fastened it about his head with the string. By crawling with his head close to the rail, he struggled toward the shaft, dragging his almost lifeless comrade with him.

One pitiful case is that o fthe Love family. Mrs. John Love is not only left a widow as a result of the disaster but four sons are also supposed to have perished in the disaster.

A canvass of what is known as "Long Row," a street which has on one side a row of 33 cottages identical in appearance, has revealed the awful fact that only two men residing in all the houses are numbered among the living. Each of the 33 families included from one to four dead.

Officers of the local miners' union today notified President T. L. Lewis of the Mine Workers' Union that 310 lives had been lost in the St. Paul Coal Co. mine disaster.

President Lewis has advised the local union that $5000, the contribution of the national body, will immediately be placed at the disposal of the widows and orphans of the victims.

A representative of the owners of the mine today declared that the loss of life would be 300.

Official reports show that there were 185 fatal accidents in the coal mines of Illinois for the year ending July 1, 1909.

CONGREGATION AT ST. PETER'S GIVES $25 FOR MINE VICTIMS

At St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Spring avenue and Lindell boulevard, an offering was taken Sunday for the relief of the families of the victims of the Cherry mine disaster. Although the rector, the Rev. Dr. D. C. Garrett, acted on impulse and the members of the congregation were not especially prepared, and although it was a rainy Sunday and the attendance was small, the donation amounted to $75.

Rev. Dr. Garrett said Monday that many of his members would contribute through other channels and was anxious to know what was being done downtown to raise a relief fund.

The St. Louis Breaker Order of Kokoal authorized the Mayor of Cherry Monday to draw on them through the St. Louis Union Trust Co. for $100 to relieve the immediate wants of widows and orphans.

Labor Men Extend Sympathy.

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 15.—By a rising vote the convention of the American Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution presented by Vice-President John Mitchell extending sympathy to the families and dependents of the victims of the mine disaster at Cherry, Ill.

Proprietary Medicine Frauds

There have been plenty of them, no doubt, and they have been vigorously condemned—so vigorously, that every sort of medicine, the formula of which is privately owned, is condemned and pronounced "unethical" by the Medical Profession.

Eckman's Alterative deserves attention, not because it is a "proprietary" but because it really has cured many cases of tuberculosis. If it is a fraud it needs exposing badly, because a number of cured Consumptives will need to find some other reason for being well.

Henry Clay said he would rather be right than be President. Is it not better for Eckman's Alterative to make cures than to be ethical?

Weldon, Ill., Feb. 8, 1908.

In July, 1905, my physician sent me to Texas, from there to Colorado. I became worse and was sent home to die. I heard of Eckman's Alterative, began treatment and was cured, I earnestly recommend Eckman's wonderful cure for Consumption. (Signed affidavit) Arthur Webb.

Eckman's Alterative is good for all throat and lung troubles, and is on sale at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Rabbeteau Drug Co. and other druggists. Ask for Booklet of cured cases, or write to Eckman Mfg. Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

LOCKS HIMSELF IN OWN HOTEL, AVERTS EVICTION

Evans and Family Hold the Fort Against Mell, the Park Lessee.

After Charles H. Evans, his wife and two daughters had been locked in their apartments at the Park Hotel, 6000 Washington avenue, Evans, who owns the hotel and the ground on which it stands, cautiously slipped out, went to Clayton, where he obtained warrants charging A. W. Mell, lessee of the hotel, and Bert Simmons, night clerk, with assault.

Evans' 18-year-old daughter, Mrs. Mary Holeman, is now guarding the apartments to prevent Mell from carrying out his threat to evict the family. Each member of the family in turn has kept vigil behind the locked door.

Grace, the other daughter, used the telephone to summon aid, but Marshal Willmann of University City, who responded to the call, could not straighten out the tangle, which had resulted from financial differences between the owner and the lessee.

All he did was threaten to arrest both Evans and Mell if their controversy should lead to a breach of the peace.

Owner Demands Possession.

Roomers on the third floor of the hotel were aroused early Sunday when Mell and Night Clerk Fred Stammers went to the Evans apartments, pounded on the door and demanded immediate possession.

Evans says that when he opened the door Mell and Stammers seized him by the arms and dragged him down the hall with the apparent intention of ejecting him.

He begged them to permit him to return for his hat and they did so. Once inside his apartments he locked the door and he had been holding the fort since.

Three weeks ago Evans filed suit against Mell in Justice Campbell's court on a claim for $5000 rent. Mell won the case.

A week ago Evans filed a second suit to dissolve Mell's lease, which has two years to run. This case is set for trial next Thursday.

Evans says that he has been advising guests at the hotel not to pay any money to Mell, and this, he thinks, is the reason why Mell wants to eject him.

Mell refused to make a statement.

have no redress, and that it would be his word against that of the bookkeeper?" Mr. Quick was asked.

"Why would a bookkeeper conceal a check that had been cashed?" demanded Quick. "And I believe it impossible for a check to have been lost in the bank."

It was learned Monday that Teasdale filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy in the United States District Court June 15. He stated that his liabilities consisted of a judgment for $1360 in favor of the Olive Street Bank, rendered March 11, and a bill of $8 for merchandise owed Morris Buck of East St. Louis.

The petition is pending before Walter B. Coles, referee in bankruptcy.

Teasdale was released from the St. Louis jail at 11 p. m. Sunday, after he had spent nearly 30 hours in confinement. His bond of $10,000 was pledged by relatives, including George Willard Teasdale, J. W. Teasdale, Thomas B. Teasdale, J. R. Teasdale and George N. Martin. Besides them, Frank E. Wheeler signed the bond.

For Constipation
A Medicine that Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Gives Satisfactory Relief.

If you suffer from constipation in any form whatever, acute or chronic, we will guarantee to supply you medicine that we honestly believe will effect permanent relief if taken with regularity and according to directions for a reasonable length of time. Should the medicine fail to benefit you to your entire satisfaction we promise that it shall cost you nothing.

No other remedy can be compared with Rexall Orderlies for the easy, pleasant and successful treatment of constipation. The active medicinal ingredient of this remedy, which is odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other valuable ingredients, it forms a preparation which is incomparable as a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, and are notable for their gentle and agreeable action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience, and may be taken at any time, day or night.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children and for delicate or aged persons, because they do not contain anything injurious. Unlike other preparations, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the habits acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics, and harsh physic, and remove the causes of constipation or irregular bowel action that are not of surgical variety.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. We know of nothing that will do you so much good. They are prepared in tablet form in two sizes; 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in St. Louis only at our store—The Rexall Store. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., S. E. Cor. 6th st. and Washington av.

WOMAN TELLS JURY HER PART IN WARRINER CASE

Former Big Four Treasurer Indicted—Inquisition Still Under Way.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 15.—An indictment was returned by the Hamilton County Grand Jury this afternoon against Charles L. Warriner, former local treasurer of the Big Four Railroad, charging him with embezzlement and grand larceny.

The indictment of Warriner on a count charging embezzlement and grand larceny followed the hearing of a number of witnesses, including Mrs. Jeannette Stewart-Ford. The grand jury is still in session, deliberating on the Warriner case.

Mrs. Sewart, or Mrs. Ford, as she is also known, was mentioned by Warriner as one of those to whom he claimed to have paid blackmail. She has strenuously denied that she ever received any money and had declared her intention to appear before the grand jury on her own motion if a summons was not issued for her.

She has hinted at sensational disclosures in connection with the case, intimating that she could give damaging evidence which would involve a prominent man of Chicago, formerly in the employment of the Big Four road.

Prosecutor Hunt laid before the jury a transcript of the proceedings before Justice Muller, in which Warriner was given a chance to plead, but instead waived examination and was admitted to bail in the sum of $20,000.

Attorney A. W. Goldsmith, law partner of Gov. Harmon, and one of the local counsel for the Big Four, and several officials from the accounting and financial departments of the Big Four, were among the witnesses heard.

TIP BY FATHER OF YOUNG THIEF LEADS TO ARREST

Told Police Son Boasted of His Part in Robbing Grocer Lundt.

At police headquarters Monday morning Henry Lundt positively identified William Weber Jr. of 1602 South Seventh street and John O'Brien of 816 Carr street as the two men who locked him in his icebox Friday night and stole $45 from the cash register in his grocery at 4253 Warne avenue.

The young men were arrested on information furnished by Weber's father, whose older son, Richard Weber, told him that William had threatened to kill his father. Fred Meyer, 22 years old, of 1125 South Sixth street, is also under arrest in connection with the robbery. Detectives found young Weber and Meyer on the Eads Bridge Sunday night; they arrested O'Brien at his home.

Richard Weber said his brother and the other two young men invited him to lunch late Friday night, saying they had plenty of money and declaring that they had committed an icebox robbery.

"Watch the morning papers," they told him, "and you'll read all about it."

When Grocer Lundt reached headquarers, a batch of miscellaneous prisoners was being taken into the photographing room. Lundt saw William Weber Jr. and said:

"That's one of the men. I would know him among a thousand."

He immediately identified O'Brien as the other man. The police believe Meyer, who was not seen by Lundt, acted as a lookout outside the store.

COUNTRY CLUB HAS OFFER OF GROUND FOR A NEW HOME

The directors of the St. Louis Country Club will meet at the Neonday Club Tuesday to consider a proposition to purchase 144 acres at the southwest corner of North and South and Clayton roads as the site for a new home for the club.

The ground will be formally offered to the directors of the club by a syndicate of St. Louis men that recently purchased it. The new site is at the west end of the present golf links.

The Country Club owns a part of the ground it now occupies, but not all of it. It leases the golf links from the Davis estate. The price at which the new site will be offered is just what the syndicate paid for it, but the figures are not disclosed.

A member of the syndicate that now owns the ground said he did not know whether the deal would go through, as the directors will first have to act on the proposition and then lay it before the club members.

TAFT CALLS UPON THE NATION TO GIVE THANKS FOR PLENTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Thursday, Nov. 25, was officially proclaimed by President Taft today as Thanksgiving Day. The President's proclamation was issued, as usual, from the State Department, where it received the official seal of the United States.

The following is the text of the proclamation:

By the President of the United States of America.

A proclamation:

The season of the year has returned when, in accordance with the reverent custom established by our forefathers, the people of the United States are wont to meet in their usual places of worship on a day of thanksgiving, appointed by the chief magistrate, to return thanks to God for the great mercies and benefits which they have enjoyed.

During this last year we have been highly blest. No great calamities or flood or tempest or epidemic sickness have befallen us. We have lived in quietness, undisturbed by wars or rumors of wars. Peace and the plenty of bounteous crops and of great industrial production animate a cheerful and resolute people to all the renewed energies of beneficent industry and material and moral progress. It is altogether fitting that we should humbly and gratefully acknowledge the Divine Source of these blessings.

Therefore, I hereby appoint Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November, as a day of general Thanksgiving, and I call upon the people on that day, laying aside their usual vocations, to repair to their churches and unite in appropriate services of praise and thanks to Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this fifteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nine, and of the independence of the United States, one hundred and thirty-fourth.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

By the President, P. C. Knox, Secretary of State.

HASKELL MUST GO TO TRIAL

CHICKASHA, Ok., Nov. 15.—Federal Judge John A. Marshall today overruled the demurrer filed by Gov. Charles N. Haskell and five other Oklahomans to indictments charging them with fraudulently obtaining from the Government title to a large number of town lots in Muskogee, Ok.

The defendants were ordered to appear for trial Saturday morning at Chickasha.

LEMON EXTRACT IMPORT. MAKERS ARE FINED $400

Forbes Bros. Tea and Spice Co. Used Wood Alcohol, Judge Dyer Declares.

The Forbes Bros. Tea and Spice Co. was fined $400 Monday in the United States District Court for violating the pure food law by adulterating and misbranding lemon and strawberry extracts.

The case against the company was tried last Wednesday, and a verdict of guilty was returned by the jury. The fixing of the punishment, under the law, rests with the Judge.

A. L. Abbott, attorney for the company, complained that the fine was excessive, but Judge Dyer said that a heavy fine was deserved because the company had used wood alcohol, which was much worse than using grain alcohol.

CHILD IS GRAZED BY SHOTS WHICH WOUND FATHER

Girl Misses Death When Four Bullets Hit Man in Bed.

BEATS HIS ASSAILANT

Injured Man Disarms Boarder; Is in Critical Condition at Hospital.

John Garlo is at the Granite City Hospital with four wounds from bullets that were fired at him by John Mitkus as he lay on a bed with his 4-year-old daughter Mary. All the bullets grazed the child, one of them perforating her clothing.

The shooting grew out of a brawl Saturday afternoon between Mitkus and Tom Komitat, in front of Andy Lovak's saloon. Komitat ran to his boarding house and Garlo, Komitat's boarding boss, threw Mitkus out.

Sunday Mitkus went back to the boarding house looking for Komitat. Garlo was asleep, but he was awakened and again ejected Mitkus.

Later in the day Mitkus returned to the house with a revolver. He opened the door of the room in which Garlo was lying and opened fire. Four bullets struck Garlo, one in the left leg, one in the abdomen, one in the left temple and one in the left ear.

He was able to get up and take the revolver away from Mitkus and beat him over the head with it, knocking him down. Garlo then sank to the floor.

Andy Novak called the police, and Chief Gottselig and Patrolman Radcliffe, responding, met Mitkus at Twenty-first and Madison streets and arrested him. Later he was taken to the Garlo boarding house for identification and the boarders made a threatening movement toward him, but the police drove them back and took Mitkus to the City Hall and locked him up.

Garlo was taken to the Granite City Hospital, where Drs. Binney and King pronounced his injuries critical.

LIABILITY LAW IS UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The employers' liability law of 1906 was today declared to be constitutional in territories of the United States and the District of Columbia by the Supreme Court of the United States, and despite the fact that more than a year ago this law was declared to be unconstitutional when applied to the states.

The question arose in a suit for damages for the death of an employe named Gutieres on the El Paro & Northeastern Railroad in New Mexico.

PORTER IS DYING FROM A FALL

Theodore Hermle, 21 years old, of 1306 North Thirteenth street, is at the City Hospital unconscious from injuries that are expected to cause his death. He was a porter at the Mercantile Trust Building and was washing a skylight Sunday morning when he fell through the glass to the marble floor, 75 feet below.

His back was broken, his left leg fractured and he was internally injured.

Here's Some Back Talk About American Women; King's Remark Is Text

"She's an American; I Know It by Her Back," Said Edward VII at Marienbad.

EXPERT GIVES REASON

Lines, Rather Than Curves, Rule, Declares Miss Keene of St. Louis.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

IT remained for King Edward of England to reveal and give a new value to the fact that American women's backs are different.

What's the mater with your backs?

Oh, nothing.

At least King Edward's remark do not signify that there is necessarily anything wrong with your backs.

It was a very beautiful stranger they were all guessing about at Marienbad the other day. Her identity was a complete mystery, yet she couldn't have been so very different from the rest of the cosmopolites, or she wouldn't have been such a puzzle. Nobody could determine her nationality or classify her until she turned her back upon King Edward, and he spoke up and said: "She's an American. I can tell it by back."

BACK NOT TURNED ON KING IN DISDAIN

IT is hardly credible that the mere act of turning her back upon England's King would have stamped her an American. American women in the Marianbad set are not distinguished in that way.

No. Though King Edward's faculty is spoken of as remarkable, there are many decided characteristics only too well known to those who have had occasion to observe, which show how the American woman, the real thoroughbred type of American girl, differs in the shape, dimensions and posture of her back from French or English or German women.

Importers of foreign gowns and lingerie and habits will tell you how they have learned often at great expense and pains the differences which no amount of French corseting or English tailoring will obliterate.

Commissioners and buyers of lingerie have found it necessary to send abroad a certain American pattern in each size for each garment destined to cover the American woman's back. Otherwise even underwear cut with a general sameness is not acceptable to the American if French or other foreign patterns are used.

WOMAN DEDUCES KING'S SYSTEM

JUST what are the points of difference by which you can always distinguish an American woman by her back? Undoubtedly King Edward is a connoisseur, but he did not reveal his little system. So I consulted Miss Keene, who goes abroad and buys French and English costumes for the Grand-Leader, and who probably has more intimate acquaintances than anyone else hereabouts with more rears, to say nothing of fronts, of St. Louis women who are good American types. And her travels place her in an advantageous position for making comparisons.

"Of course American women have backs all of their own," she declared. "And they are by no means devoid of curves. But I should say they are given to lines, long, sloping lines, rather than sudden curves.

"All figures differ in the matter of carriage rather than of actual proportions. And the American woman holds her shoulders back so that they have flatness and breadth, and because she is long-waisted and not given to tight lacing they have an easy, relaxed slope. For the same reason her waist is supple and graceful and her hips seem narrow.

FRENCH SHOULDERS ALMOST REACH EARS

THE French woman, on the other hand, laces so tightly that her shoulders are pushed up almost to her ears, thus accounting for the famous French shrug as a necessity and not an affectation.

"Her shoulders seem to be narrow for this reason and she is much fuller under the arms. She has an abrupt little waist.

"Of the English back, really the less said the better," continued Miss Keene, with always one eye to placing the best examples before her disciples.

"Their backs curve outward at the waist line, where they should curve in. Their shoulders droop, while their elbows are rigid. It is a matter of carriage, of course, although the English woman is notoriously indifferent about her stays.

"She will rely entirely upon the whalebones with which her tailors and dressmakers make her simplest gowns look like strait-jackets."

So, now that King Edward has provoked this research, your points, to say nothing of your curves, are catalogued so that, whether you like it or not, henceforth you go about with your nationality stamped on your back.

PIONEER WOMAN PHYSICIAN OF MISSOURI DIES AT 79

Mrs. Margaret R. de S. Schmidt's Body Taken to Hannibal for Interment.

The body of Mrs. Margaret Ruck de Schell Schmidt, pioneer woman physician of Missouri, was taken to Hannibal Sunday night by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutchings and Miss Louise Schmidt of St. Louis, to be buried Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hutchings, a well-known writer, and Miss Schmidt, superintendent of nurses in a St. Louis hospital, are daughters of the woman, who died Saturday night in Bethesda Hospital from paralysis, at the age of 79.

Fifty years ago the Rev. Dr. Carl H. Schmidt of Hannibal, pastor of a German Methodist church, planned to go to Japan as a missionary, and his wife studied medicine that she might assist him in his work. The Schmidts abandoned their intention to go to Japan because of the clergyman's poor health, but Mrs. Schmidt practiced medicine many years in this State.

Dr. Richard Schmidt of Hannibal and A. J. Schmidt of Shreveport, La., are other surviving children of Mrs Schmidt.

DRUGGISTS WOULD END ABUSE OF FREE TELEPHONE SERVICE

They Will Hold Meeting Tuesday Night to Decide on What Steps to Take.

A meeting of the Retail Druggists' Association has been called for Tuesday night to consider what further action shall be taken in reference to the demand that the Kinloch Telephone Co. place slot-machine telephones in all drug stores.

A headline in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, reading, "Druggists Fight Kinloch Telephone Graft," has been misconstrued in a way which has caused a protest by the managers of the Kinloch company.

They believe that some may think that the word "graft" refers to the nature of the company's relations with druggists. The idea which the headline writer meant to convey was that many persons "graft" on the druggists by using the free telephone instead of the one in which they have to drop a nickel."

TROUPE STRANDS, MANAGER BARELY ESCAPES A CELL

Police Detain Actor When He Pawns Typewriter for Fare.

Time: Sunday morning, shortly before 9 o'clock.

Place: Union Station midway.

Characters: Members of a barnstorming theatrical troupe, presenting the "Sensational Western Drama, 'The Heart of the Rockies.'"

Walter Beck (leading man, manager, press agent, advance agent and financial backer): Good morning, comrades, are we all here? (Counts nose and finds none missing). Bully. And now for transportation. Remember, we play to a crowded house in Carlyle, Ill., tonight. (Beck goes to the ticket office while the other members of the company strut up and down the midway, rehearsing their lines. Returning a few minutes later, Beck, wearing an expression of disappointment, addresses the players who surround him).

Beck: Bad news for you all, friends; two of us are without fare. What shall we do?

Soubrette: The ticket agent.

Beck: No time for levity, companions. We must act quickly.

Comedian: How can we act without the scenery?

Beck (impatiently): Come, come, what are we to do?

Villain (addressing Beck): What have you there in your hand? Answer.

Beck: The typewriter.

Villain: Hock it.

(Two minutes later Beck rushes into a pawnshop at Sixteenth and Market streets and deposits his typewriter on the counter.)

Beck: What'll you give me on it?

Policeman (hiding in the doorway): Wonder where he copped the machine?

(Three minutes later, at Central District Police Station.)

Beck (surrounded by the indignant members of his company): I say I did not swipe it and I can prove it. (Produces bill of sale and is released. Five minutes later, the company boarding a train at Union Station.)

Beck: By the gods, 'twas a narrow escape!

WIDOW BORROWS WEEDS TO GO TO BANDIT'S INQUEST

Changes Clothing With Cousin in Matron's Room—Freed by Coroner.

Mrs. Carrie Mynarski, the 19-year-old widow of Edward Mynarski, a bank robber who shot and killed himself in a North St. Louis ravine when pursued by detectives, was released from custody Monday after she had testified at the inquest.

A verdict of suicide was returned after three witnesses other than detectives had testified that they saw the fugitive bandit take his life.

Before the inquest there was a quick transformation, in the matron's room at police headquarters.

"I can't go to the inquest dressed like this," she told the police. Miss Minnie Staechel, her cousin, appeared at the matron's room Monday, dressed in deep mourning. When she emerged she wore a gray dress and picture hat. She and the widow had exchanged clothing.

Mrs. Mynarski gave brief testimony at the inquest. She said she knew Mynarski only a month before their marriage and denied she knew he was a criminal.

Victor Lamont of 4831 Carter avenue, Henry Schute, 2478 Gilmore avenue, and John Boegemann, 4259 Shreve avenue, testified that they saw the bank robber kill himself in a ravine at Taylor and Anderson avenues. All said Mynarski, at the top of a hill, fired shots in the direction from which Detective Wardenski was closing in.

Then he ran down the hill and back into the ravine, put the revolver to his temple and fired. He tried to arise again, but fell over dead.

John Dombrowski, alleged to have helped Mynarski rob the Bank of Nova Scotia in Rainey River, Ont., is under arrest in Pittsburg, press dispatches say. Dombrowski was betrayed by his anxiety to find the other two robbers who, he said, had cheated him out of his share of the plunder.

STABBED 3 WEEKS AGO, DIES; POLICE DIDN'T KNOW IT

Visitor With Whom Victim Fought Had Plenty of Time to Escape.

Until notified Monday that Heath Willis, 22 years old, of 2201 Eugenia street, had died at St. Mary's Infirmary the police did not know that he had been stabbed in a fight nearly three weeks ago.

There was no official record of the tragedy and while the police were in ignorance that a crime had been committed its perpetrator escaped.

Now an order has been issued for the arrest of Horace Benton, a stenographer in the offices of the Pullman company at Union Station until the time of the stabbing.

According to a statement made by J. B. Willis, a brother, of 2129 Adams street, Heath Williams was entertaining friends in his room the night of Oct. 16. They had been drinking beer, but Benton insisted on sending for a bottle of whisky. The others refused to drink and he consumed most of it and became boisterous.

Willis ordered him from the room and there was a fight. After Benton had been ejected the party broke up. Willis went to the door with his friends. As he returned he was attacked at the head of the stairs, and was stabbed four times. The wound which caused death was in his right lung.

MARGARET ILLINGTON WEDS THREE DAYS AFTER DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Nov. 15.—Miss Margaret Illington, the actress, who obtained a divorce from Daniel Frohman, theatrical manager, Wednesday, was married Saturday to Edward J. Bowles, a real estate dealer of Tacoma. The wedding took place here and the couple afterward left for Tacoma.

When Mr. Frohman issued a statement last February announcing that he and his wife had parted, Mrs. Frohman was in a hospital in San Francisco, recovering from an attack of nervous prostration. She said at that time:

"My one desire is to have a home and children of my own; to darn socks and care for my own home. I want to leave the stage forever. Yes, I care for Mr. Bowles, but I can't say that I am going to marry him, for as yet I don't know how I am going to get a divorce."

Miss Illington's real name was Maud Light, and she was born in Bloomington, Ill. She married Mr. Frohman six years ago, when she was 23 years old.

GAGE CONVERTS HIS FIANCEE TO THEOSOPHY

At the Age of 73 He Woos and Will Wed Third Wife Thanksgiving.

WOMAN IS A DIVORCEE

Former Secretary of the Treasury and Bride Will Live in California.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 15.—The charming Mrs. Ada Ballou was visited by the Post-Dispatch correspondent at Coronado near here. Mrs. Ballou has attained local fame as a music teacher.

"Is it true that you and Lyman T. Gage, former Secretary of the Treasury, are to be married soon?" the correspondent asked.

"Yes; we are to be married on Thanksgiving day," answered Mrs. Ballou, who is young enough to be Mr. Gage's daughter—he is 73.

"But I do not think Mr. Gage wished it to be known before the ceremony," Mrs. Ballou continued nervously. "Have you seen our new home at Point Loma? Isn't it splendid? No, we shall take no honeymoon trip, but shall just settle down at our new home as soon as we are married.

"Mr. Gage has made a theosophist of me. I knew nothing about it until he began to explain it to me. Now I am a firm believer in the truth of the teachings of Mrs. Tingley, and I shall become a member of the association."

Confirmed by Mr. Gage.

"I am sorry that the secret of my engagement to Mrs. Ballou leaked out, but of course there is no use in crying over spilt milk. As the secret is out, it's all right," said Mr. Gage.

"Afterward we will live at Point Loma across the bay, where our new home is being rapidly finished."

Mr. Gage is very happy and is receiving congratulations from all over the country. Mrs. Ballou is tall and stately, with pale blue eyes, white skin and a mass of glowing red hair. She sings and plays the piano well, and has the reputation of being one of the most fascinating women in the city.

Mrs. Ballou is a daughter of George H. Ballou, a prominent merchant of San Diego. Mrs. Ballou's friends say that she married a Mr. Crane of Pittsburg about six years ago. She divorced him after a short time and resumed her maiden name. Three years ago Mrs. Ballou became engaged to W. Goe, a millionaire resident of Kansas City, who died just before the date set for the wedding.

Mrs. Ballou went from here to New York in 1902 when John C. Fischer, manager of the local opera house, put "Florodora" on the stage in New York. She sang for a time in the famous sextette. She first met Mr. Crane at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, where both were in attendance. They met when Mrs. Ballou was signing in New York and the attachment of former years was renewed.

Lyman J. Gage, who has earned a high reputation as a financier, was born in 1836. Mrs. Ballou will be his third wife. He married Miss Sarah Etheridge of Hastings, Neb., in 1864; she died 10 years later. In 1887 he married Mrs. Cornelia Washburn Gage of Denver, Colo. She died in Washington at the age of 58. Her husband was Secretary of the Treasury and it was said that the strain of her social duties at the National Capital did much to break down her health.

NORTHWEST IS CUT OFF BY AN EARLY BLIZZARD

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 15.—The Northwest is snowbound in the worst November storm in 13 years. No trains have arrived over the Northern Pacific or the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, while the Great Northern trains are all late. Street cars were tied up all of Sunday.

Sixteen inches of snow fell, beginning Saturday at noon. There was a 40-mile gale blowing and the snow has been piled up in gigantic drifts. Telegraph and telephone wires west and south of here have been affected by the storm. Services were held in a few of the churches yesterday and but few persons braved the storm to venture out of their homes. Last night the velocity of the wind decreased and the snow ceased falling.

Reports from all over North Dakota indicate the storm area has embraced districts reaching for 100 miles south and west of here.

At Manitoba Junction, Minn., on the Northern Pacific, a freight engine ran into an open switch. Seven cars and the engine were overturned. No one was hurt. The stranded train was then practically enveloped by the drifts.

YOUTH'S SKULL IS FRACTURED, BROTHERS SHIELD EACH OTHER

Youths Each Assume Responsibility in Fight Following Quarrel Over Their Sister.

Secrecy of those concerned is making it difficult for the police to determine how the skull of George Dominick of 1416 Wright street was fractured. Miss Edna Knowles, 19 years old, of 1551 North Second street, was the unwitting cause of the trouble. Two of her brothers are under arrest. She says both are innocent, but will make no further statement.

Burgess Knowles, 17, says that it was he who struck Dominick with a brick, but Marshall Knowles, 18, denies this, and, shielding his brother, he says that Dominick stumbled and struck his head on a sidewalk.

Dominick declares it was Marshall and not Burgess who struck him. All say they are friends.

Patrolman Kiernan found Dominick on a Cherokee car at Blair and St. Louis avenues early Sunday with a deep gash on his head. At the City Hospital his condition was pronounced serious.

Marshall Knowles when arrested said: "My sister, Edna, was standing in front of a dance hall and Dominick ordered her away. Edna ran to me and told me. Later Dominick came and struck me on the shoulder. Dominick met me again and asked me how I liked that punch. He struck me in the face. I ran and he followed. I looked back and saw he had fallen down."

Anty Drudge Tells How to Prevent Washday Smells.

Jones—"Holy smoke! Is some one burning glue in the kitchen?"

Mrs. Jones—"No, Theodore. It's washday you know, and what you smell is the suds-steam from the washboiler."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you use Fels-Naptha and do away with the washboiler? Then there will be no steam to permeate the whole house every washday."

The Different Kind of Soap. That, in a nutshell, is Fels-Naptha.

Different—because Fels-Naptha is more than a soap—it is a different way of washing.

Different—because Fels-Naptha gets the wash ready for the line in about half the time of any other soap.

Different—because Fels-Naptha itself does the work of loosening the dirt from the fabric, which every other soap leaves to you to do with the washboard.

Different—because with Fels-Naptha there's no backache: no need for long bending over the tub, as with other soaps.

Different—because Fels-Naptha actually does in cool or lukewarm water what the best other soaps will not do even in scalding hot water.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper, summer or winter.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

GIRL CHUM OF ANNA PELLEY DIES FROM SHOCK CAUSED BY NEWS OF FRIEND'S FATE

Miss Mary Whalen, schoolmate and intimate friend since childhood of Anna Pelley, the girl murdered last Monday night at Cairo, died at her home, 425 North Seventh street, in East St. Louis Sunday morning at 2:30 of heart trouble.

Miss Whalen had been ill, but was improving when news of her chum's death was brought to her. She read the papers telling of the murder and lynching, and became much excited. She talked of the crime incessantly and her physician says her agitation and grief was largely responsible for her death.

Miss Whalen was 21 years of age. She and Miss Pelley were neighbors at Anna, Ill., and attended public school there together. They took their first communion together in the Catholic Church there under the Rev. Father Goelz, now rector of St. Philip's Church in Edgemont.

The body will be sent to Anna, Ill., Tuesday morning, after service in St. Patrick's Church, and Miss Whalen will be buried in the Anna Cemetery, 50 feet from the grave of her friend.

She first met Mr. Crane at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, where both were in attendance. They met when Mrs. Ballou was signing in New York and the attachment of former years was renewed.

Lyman J. Gage, who has earned a high reputation as a financier, was born in 1836. Mrs. Ballou will be his third wife. He married Miss Sarah Etheridge of Hastings, Neb., in 1864; she died 10 years later. In 1887 he married Mrs. Cornelia Washburn Gage of Denver, Colo. She died in Washington at the age of 58. Her husband was Secretary of the Treasury and it was said that the strain of her social duties at the National Capital did much to break down her health.

GIRL CHUM OF ANNA PELLEY DIES FROM SHOCK CAUSED BY NEWS OF FRIEND'S FATE

Miss Mary Whalen, schoolmate and intimate friend since childhood of Anna Pelley, the girl murdered last Monday night at Cairo, died at her home, 425 North Seventh street, in East St. Louis Sunday morning at 2:30 of heart trouble.

Miss Whalen had been ill, but was improving when news of her chum's death was brought to her. She read the papers telling of the murder and lynching, and became much excited. She talked of the crime incessantly and her physician says her agitation and grief was largely responsible for her death.

Miss Whalen was 21 years of age. She and Miss Pelley were neighbors at Anna, Ill., and attended public school there together. They took their first communion together in the Catholic Church there under the Rev. Father Goels, now rector of St. Philip's Church in Edgemont.

The body will be sent to Anna, Ill., Tuesday morning, after service in St. Patrick's Church, and Miss Whalen will be buried in the Anna Cemetery, 50 feet from the grave of her friend.

NORTHWEST IS CUT OFF BY AN EARLY BLIZZARD

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 15.—The Northwest is snowbound in the worst November storm in 13 years. No trains have arrived over the Northern Pacific or the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, while the Great Northern trains are all late. Street cars were tied up all of Sunday.

Sixteen inches of snow fell, beginning Saturday at noon. There was a 40-mile gale blowing and the snow has been piled up in gigantic drifts. Telegraph and telephone wires west and south of here have been affected by the storm. Services were held in a few of the churches yesterday and but few persons braved the storm to venture out of their homes. Last night the velocity of the wind decreased and the snow ceased falling.

Reports from all over North Dakota indicate the storm area has embraced districts reaching for 100 miles south and west of here.

At Manitoba Junction, Minn., on the Northern Pacific, a freight engine ran into an open switch. Seven cars and the engine were overturned. No one was hurt. The stranded train was then practically enveloped by the drifts.

YOUTH'S SKULL IS FRACTURED, BROTHERS SHIELD EACH OTHER

Youths Each Assume Responsibility in Fight Following Quarrel Over Their Sister.

Secrecy of those concerned is making it difficult for the police to determine how the skull of George Dominick of 1416 Wright street was fractured. Miss Edna Knowles, 19 years old, of 1551 North Second street, was the unwitting cause of the trouble. Two of her brothers are under arrest. She says both are innocent, but will make no further statement.

Burgess Knowles, 17, says that it was he who struck Dominick with a brick, but Marshall Knowles, 18, denies this, and, shielding his brother, he says that Dominick stumbled and struck his head on a sidewalk.

Dominick declares it was Marshall and not Burgess who struck him. All say they are friends.

Patrolman Kiernan found Dominick on a Cherokee car at Blair and St. Louis avenues early Sunday with a deep gash on his head. At the City Hospital his condition was pronounced serious.

Marshall Knowles when arrested said: "My sister, Edna, was standing in front of a dance hall and Dominick ordered her away. Edna ran to me and told me. Later Dominick came and struck me on the shoulder. Dominick met me again and asked me how I liked that punch. He struck me in the face. I ran and he followed. I looked back and saw he had fallen down."

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Anty Drudge Tells How to Prevent Washday Smells.

Jones—"Holy smoke! Is some one burning glue in the kitchen?"

Mrs. Jones—"No, Theodore. It's washday you know, and what you smell is the suds-steam from the washboiler."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you use Fels-Naptha and do away with the washboiler? Then there will be no steam to permeate the whole house every washday."

The Different Kind of Soap. That, in a nutshell, is Fels-Naptha.

Different—because Fels-Naptha is more than a soap—it is a different way of washing.

Different—because Fels-Naptha gets the wash ready for the line in about half the time of any other soap.

Different—because Fels-Naptha itself does the work of loosening the dirt from the fabric, which every other soap leaves to you to do with the washboard.

Different—because with Fels-Naptha there's no backache: no need for long bending over the tub, as with other soaps.

Different—because Fels-Naptha actually does in cool or lukewarm water what the best other soaps will not do even in scalding hot water.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper, summer or winter.

TAFT WANTS TO MAKE A RECORD IN SUGAR CASE

Government Investigators Told to Spare None in Customs Fraud Inquiry.

FINES ONLY SECONDARY

Administration Would Show It Can Imprison Alleged Malefactors.

MACVEAGH RELENTLESS

Will Resign Unless He Has Free Hand Against the Trust.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Shorn of all legal verbiage and avoiding all circumlocution, the attitude of the United States against the American Sugar Refining Co. is this:

Every cent legally due the Government by reason of false weighing shall be collected, even if the payment of the money means the financial annihilation of the trust.

Every person in any way connected with the trust, against whom evidence of complicity in the crime can be secured, will be sent to the penitentiary, if possible, without respect to the character of the position held.

Although every Government official having any connection with the case declines to be quoted for publication, it can be said upon authority that President Taft, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Attorney-General Wickersham have reached the unanimous determination to press relentlessly into the trust's vitals the inquiry as to its criminal conduct, and that every person engaged in the investigation, or having any knowledge of its affairs, is incited to his greatest endeavors by the knowledge that the wringing of more millions of ill-gotten gains from the trust and putting some of its officers behind the bars will be considered a crowning achievement of administration officials.

The unremitting eagerness of the authorities to make a clean sweep is manifested by the alacrity with which all cabinet subordinates are moving. Not for years, according to interested observers, has an administration shown such a determination to press to a speedy and thorough conclusion a case which it is openly admitted on all sides threatens to involve so many prominent people in the business and political world.

It is no secret that every political artifice and influence known to powerful and adroit politics, has been exercised in this case to defeat the ends of justice—and it is expected by some officials that those efforts will be continued, although Secretary MacVeagh has made it clear that he has interested himself personally in the case and that it will be futile for the exercise of political or other influence, as the investigation must go to the very bottom, hit whom it may.

It is safe to say that Secretary MacVeagh will resign if any effort is made to "call off" the prosecution.

Some sensational developments may be expected shortly.

"The trust is fighting for its very life," said a man who has kept in touch with events, "but the Government inspectors have superb control of the case and the authorities have reached the gratifying conviction that the true inside of this gigantic fraud will be revealed to it shortly."

SUGAR TRUST HAD UNDERGROUND WIRE TO U. S. TREASURY OFFICE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.

ACTING DEPUTY SURVEYOR RICHARD PARR, who gathered most of the evidence the United States Government has used against the Sugar Trust, civilly and criminally, makes the following statements against former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury James Burton Reynolds, who is now a member, by appointment of President Taft of the Tariff Commission:

That Mr. Reynolds hindered him in investigating the sugar frauds by giving him other far away assignments, such as sending him to Maine and California.

THAT Mr. Reynolds failed to discipline him when he refused to go to Cuba and otherwise disobeyed orders of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

That another agent was assigned to continue the work of investigating the sugar frauds, an agent who knew nothing about the frauds and little about the ways of the Sugar Trust.

That Mr. Reynolds telephoned to Deputy Collector Stewart on Nov. 20, 1907, that there were to be no "seizures," this message being received after Parr had made seizure of a cargo of sugar and before he had reported it.

THAT Mr. Reynolds ordered the release by telephone from the Treasury Department at Washington of the steamer Stratheyre and its cargo of sugar two days after its seizure.

Secretary had not stood by me," Parr said.

Parr, then a special treasury agent, discovered the steel spring which the trust used on many scales to defraud the Government at the Havemeyer and Elder sugar refinery in Williamsburg. He made this discovery Nov. 20, 1907.

The steamer Stratheyre was tied up at dock with a cargo of sugar from Java. Parr seized it soon after some of its cargo was removed. He seized also part of a stanchion of a crooked scale in which a wire had been inserted. Parr told to the Post-Dispatch his experiences that day in these words:

"I made that seizure about 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and it was about 2:30 o'clock when I got to the custom house. While I was making out a report I was informed by G. F. Cross, my immediate superior, that word had come from the Treasury Department that no seizures were to be made. Mind you, I had not even made out a report of what I had done.

Message by Telephone.

"I questioned Mr. Cross, who is one of the straightest men I ever worked under, and he told me he had been informed by Special Deputy H. C. Stewart that such a message had been received over the long distance telephone. I found out that the man who did the telephoning from the Washington end of the wire was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury James Burton Reynolds. Special Deputy Collector H. C. Stewart told me that and there is no doubt of it.

"I could not help but think that there was something queer about this message. Fortunately the order did not say anything about not seizing crooked scales. I was kind of up against it for a time on my seizure of that sugar cargo, for I had practically seized the steamer, too. In a general way I knew the collector had the right to release a seizure if the amount was not over $25 and that the Secretary of the Treasury could order the release of seized property not valued over $1000. And I had seized a cargo of sugar worth perhaps $750,000 and practically seized the boat.

"Of course I had stopped all work of unloading that cargo and no one in the Custom House here knew what to do about it in the light of the telephone message from Assistant Secretary Reynolds. On the second day Reynolds telephoned again. This time he ordered that the Stratheyre and its cargo be released. There was nothing to be done but to release the ship and the cargo.

Tried to Bribe Him.

"That certainly was a busy day for me. When I seized that scale device I was offered a bribe by Oscar Spitzer, who was dock superintendent at the Havemeyer & Elder refinery. He told me to name my own price if I would forget what I had found.

"I refused the bribe and then Spitzer tried to bribe the man who was assisting me in my investigations. This man was James O. Brezinski, a special agent of the Treasury, who had formerly been in the secret service. I heard Spitzer make overtures to Brezinski and he refused to deal with him.

"Later Spitzer was arrested on a charge of attempted bribery. Brezinski made the complaint and I corroborated him on the strength of what I had heard Spitzer say to him. Spitzer was indicted, tried and acquitted. His acquittal was due solely to the poor memory of Brezinski.

"The District Attorney who tried the case seemed to think something had gone amiss between the indictment and the trial, and while the trial was on he expressed himself on paper and sent it on to the Treasury Department. Soon after this trial Brezinski quit the Government service.

"It was before this trial began that my desk in the Custom House was forcibly opened and a memorandum book stolen from it. In this book were memoranda of my investigations concerning sugar frauds, and I guess the person who stole it wanted it badly. Its loss did not bother me very much. If it had been of any great importance I would not have left it in my desk. The proper place I have found to put important papers is in a good, strong safe or a safe-deposit vault."

Friend of Loeb.

Parr's investigations were begun when he was a sugar sampler and it was through Mr. Loeb's influence he was made a special investigator. As soon as he received this appointment, Parr resumed his investigating, but had not been long at it when, he says, Assistant Secretary Reynolds summoned him to Washington and ordered him to Maine. After vainly telling his superiors that he could not very well detect sugar frauds in Maine, he started for that post. He remained there until March 1, 1907. When he returned he resumed the investigations that he had to drop when he was sent away.

While he was engaged in this work he was again summoned to Washington by Assistant Secretary Reynolds, who told him he wanted him to go to Cuba, Parr says. Parr declares that he protested against this and said his health was so poor that such a trip would be harmful to him. Then, Parr says, Reynolds told him he would have to go to California to look up some matters the Treasury Department was interested in.

Parr protested to Loeb about going West and gave it as his opinion that some person wanted to get him out of the way. Loeb advised him to go and to keep in touch with things while he was away. Following this advice he did go to California, but he returned sooner than Secretary Reynolds had expected he would.

Was Not Disciplined.

As soon as he reached Washington he reported to Mr. Reynolds. Although Parr had violated the orders of the Assistant Secretary, he was not disciplined for doing so. He found a new man assigned to his task of investigating the sugar frauds, a man who knew little of the affairs. He appealed to Collector Fowler, who went to Washington with him to see about it. Mr. Reynolds was then in Europe and Mr. Parr says it was only after a lively interview with Acting Secretary Coolidge that he was again placed on the sugar trail.

It was mainly on Parr's testimony and the evidence that he gathered that the Government obtained a verdict against the Sugar Trust and recovered $2,000,000. Under the Treasury regulations, Parr, it should seem, is entitled to a good percentage of this money. He has already filed a claim, but it is said that Assistant Secretary Reynolds disapproved it before he left the Treasury Department. The final adjudication will be made by Secretary MacVeagh. If he finds the claim well founded he has power to award as much as 50 per cent of the total amount of the fine to Parr. The acting Deputy Surveyor would not discuss this claim today.

NEW YORK OFFICIAL FOUND TRUST'S UNDERGROUND WIRE

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—More light is thrown by acting Deputy Surveyor Richard Parr in an interview on the underground wire that seemed to connect for a long time the offices of the Sugar Trust at 117 Wall street in this city with the Treasury Department in Washington. Parr has had most to do with getting evidence against the trust.

"I would not have stood a Chinaman's chance if President Roosevelt and his

SUGAR TRUST CONTROLLED CIVIL SERVICE, SUN DECLARES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The New York Sun, by way of introduction to today's chapter in its crusade against the Sugar Trust, says:

"The civil service system was a branch of the American Sugar Refining Co., just as the appraisers' division, the surveyor's department, the collector's office and the secret service were Sugar Trust adjuncts.

The trust's 20-year career of plunder and extortion and cheating would have been impossible had it not controlled the employment of customs employes and the dismissal of customs employes.

"It opened the door to thieves and shut out honest men. It put its own thieving agents into the customs service as deliberately and certainly as it named its official staff at 117 Wall street or its force of refiners. With its tremendous influence at Washington, it nullified civil service regulations. There is, however, no evidence that President Cleveland or President McKinley ever got an inkling at what was going on."

MISS ETHEL ROOSEVELT WILL VISIT SISTER IN WASHINGTON

She Is Popular at the Capital and Is Likely to Spend Much Time There.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The younger element of Washington society, with whom Miss Ethel Roosevelt is immensely popular, is jubilant over the announcement that she will pay the capital city a visit before long.

Miss Roosevelt's hostesses will be her sister, Mrs. Longworth, Mrs. John R. McLean and Miss Carrie Louise Munn, whose engagement to Theodore Roosevelt Jr., has been frequently rumored and as frequently denied.

Miss Roosevelt is far more at home in Washington than in New York and it is believed that she will spend a large part of the season here. Miss Munn is Miss Roosevelt's most intimate friend and was introduced to society last year. The marked attentions she received from yong Theodore Roosevelt have given rise to the belief that a marriage will ultimately be the result of their boy and girl romance.

FOR THIRD TIME BELLEVILLE CHURCH ASKS HIM TO QUIT; BUT PASTOR HOLDS TO PULPIT

The Rev. Mr. Nichols Preaches on Though Congregation That Hears Him Dwindles.

The First Baptist Church of Belleville is in a turmoil because the pastor, the Rev. C. W. Nichols, refuses to quit. Three times a majority vote of the congregation has asked him to present his resignation, and still he preaches. In the meantime the attendance at the church has dropped one-half, according to statements of some of the members. "If it keeps on this way," said Attorney Fred B. Merrils, one of the trustees of the church, "we will have to sell the church property to pay his salary."

The Rev. Mr. Nichols has been pastor of the Belleville church since March, when he succeeded the Rev. J. W. Greathouse, who resigned after he had told the members of the Halcyon Club, a woman's organization of the church, they "should do church work and not spend their time in gossip."

Miss Louisa Boyakin, the treasurer of the church, said that Mr. Nichols' salary, $1000 a year, had been paid in full up to the 1st of last July, but that since that time he had been paid only a small amount over $100 because of the dissentions arising from criticism of the minister.

Deacons George Phillips and Frank S. Burns were delegated to inform the minister of the third request of the church that he resign. When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter what reply the minister had made to their report they refused to make a statement.

In reply to the question: "Is it true the congregation of your church has asked you to resign and that you have not done so?" the Rev. Mr. Nichols said over the telephone to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I have nothing to say."

HER PHYSICIAN ADVISED

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during my most critical illnesses. My doctor told me it was good, and since taking it I feel so much better that I can do all my work again. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fine remedy for all woman's troubles, and I never forget to tell my friends what it has done for me."—Mrs. E. Hanson, 304 East Long St., Columbus, Ohio.

Another Woman Helped.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was suffering from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and strength, and proved worth mountains of gold to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter."—Mrs. Charles Barclay, R. F. D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are suffering from any distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SYMPHONY "POP" CONCERT SEASON IS FINELY BEGUN

All Attendance Records Broken by Big Audience at Odeon Yesterday.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Conductor Zach's Players Heard at Their Best by Army of Music-Lovers.

EVEN more than the excellent program of the first popular concert of the Symphony Orchestra season at the Odeon yesterday afternoon did the great audience delight my soul.

It filled the deep and commodious Odeon auditorium to its every nook and cranny. The parquet, the boxes, the balcony, all were crowded, and after every seat in the house, upstairs and down, was sold and occupied, several hundred persons, eager to hear the season's inaugural Sunday offering of Conductor Zach and his admirable players, were turned away, grievously disappointed.

And even more than by the assemblage of this great audience was my soul delighted because every member of the vast crowd seemed intent upon the music, alert to hear, swift to appreciate, generous to applaud, prompt in its gathering and reluctant to leave until the last note of the last program number had been sounded.

Of what splendid significance is such an audience, so overwhelming in numbers, so early to arrive that Grand avenue was lined, parade-like, with its advancing columns, long before the hour set for the concert's opening, so silent during the program's progress that no minutest charm of the orchestra's playing was lost to anyone, so truly enwrapt in the afternoon's pleasure that it remained to applaud Mr. Zach and his players even beyond the concert's close!

For this means that St. Louis is becoming populous with sincere lovers of music. It means that the Sunday popular concerts shall more than ever prove the great developing school of subscribers for the symphony concerts. It means that the love of symphonic compositions is increasing to magnificent proportions in St. Louis, that the patient and devoted endeavor of Mr. Zach and his players is bearing the ripest fruit—and that this season's harvesting in the most vital of all the arts will be rich indeed.

Never before in the history of the Symphony Orchestra in St. Louis has so big an audience assembled at one of its Sunday afternoon popular concerts. And, fitly, never before was so worthy a program offered for the high pleasure of those attending.

The program's "gem numbers," it seemed to me, were the lovely prelude to Humperdinck's fairy opera, "Hansel and Gretel;" the closing movement of Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite No. 2," giving us in Solweg's song a little score of exquisite beauty; the two Pierne compositions for string orchestra, the first of which, "The Vigil of the Guardian Angel," like the "Peer Gynt" second suite, was then heard here for the first time, the second, the Serenade, wistfully recalling memories of the elfin Kubelik, with whom it was a favorite encore number, and the delicately appealing Meditation from Massenet's "Thais," Concert Master Hugo Olk playing the violin obligato with surpassing skill and sympathy.

Yet were the other program numbers similarly memorable in their degree. They included the majestic March from Wagner's "Tannhauser," a compellingly entrancing "Carmen" group, the three picturesque dances from Edward German's incidental music to "Henry VIII," and, as the closing number, Strauss' bewitching "Artist's Life" waltz. The orchestra under Mr. Zach's direction was never before heard to such advantage, revealing to the full the almost incalculable value of the daily rehearsals now made possible by the players being placed under permanent contract for the entire Symphony season.

And at next Sunday afternoon's popular concert, so excellent is the program arranged for that occasion, we may confidently expect to see a repetition of yesterday's record-breaking success. The most brilliant musical year in St. Louis' history is now having its fine beginning.

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. You Who Spend Twice for Fuel What You Should

Will save you a third or half your fuel bill this season if you will listen to reason. If it was $30.00 last winter, how would $15.00 sound for this year?

Remember, we guarantee to save a third the fuel—proper use will save at least half. And just stop to think—the amount saved in fuel will pay the cost of the stove—Cole's Hot Blast saves its cost and over. Will we guarantee this? Yes! We guarantee:

Cole's Hot Blast

1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.
2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.
3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.
5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.
7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.

All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and set up with a good flue.

NO OTHER STOVE EVER SOLD WITH SUCH A GUARANTEE.

CASH OR EASY PAYMENTS

We want to impress on you that this stove is not in competition with ANY other stove—it is alone; all its important points are patented and cannot be imitated—to have the best you must get

Cole's Patented High Oven Range

NO STOOPING WHILE BAKING

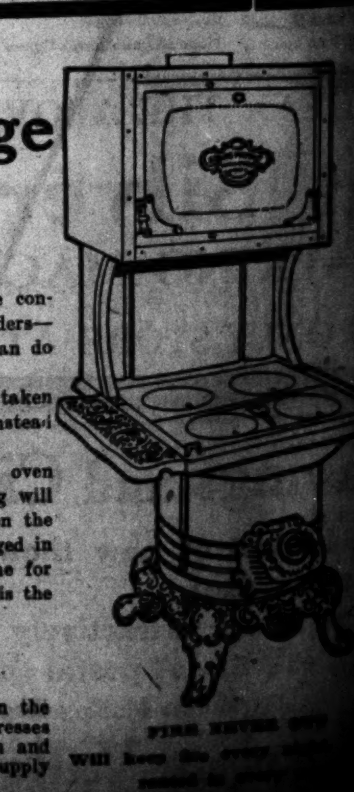

Get Cole's Patent High Oven Range—note the convenience. The oven is on a level with the shoulders—so you don't have to stoop while baking. You can do it all in a comfortable, erect position.

The natural course of heat is to rise. We have taken advantage of this, and have placed the oven high instead of down low.

The heat rises around all four sides of the oven evenly. All sides are heated alike. Your baking will not be over baked on one side and half baked on the other. The temperature of the oven can be changed in less than a minute, yet you can keep it the same for over two hours on one charge of fuel—so perfect is the fuel combustion.

IT IS NOT NEW

We have sold hundreds of them in St. Louis in the last four years and will give the names and addresses of plenty of your neighbors that are using them and who will tell you they will have no other. We supply it with or without hot-water coil.

"STA HERNE" MELODRAMA OF FUTILE TYPE

...cial and Unconvincing, ...spite Star's Good Work in Title Role.

...G-FIEND HEROINE

...ing to Conquer Laudanum ...bit, She Dies Miserably in Last Act.

...Edward Peple had done as well ... Mrs. Leslie Carter in writing "Vasta Herne" as Mrs. Carter ... him in playing its title role, ... night at the Century would have ... very much more satisfying to all ... he didn't.

...d of giving this powerful emo... actress a drama worthy of her ... and always earnest endeavor, ... Peple has provided her with an ...cial; unconvincing and faultily con... melodrama, against the weak... of which she struggles in vain. ... chief problem and main element ...matic suspense, as the play now ..., is the question of whether or ... Vasta Herne can be cured of the ... habit.

... is more interesting for neurolo... gists than for the general play-going public, which feels very much more concern in the drug-unclouded passions of the human soul than in any exposition of the dire injury caused by feeding one's nerves on brain-stimulants and opiates.

Not recognizing this great dramatic truth, Mr. Peple makes Vasta Herne, like Wilkie Collins, a laudanum tippler who depends upon the distilled poison of the poppy for literary inspiration, and who is a pitiful incompetent if the daily rations of laudanum happen to run short.

Incidentally, she is a "woman with a past," and with an extremely villainous villain-lover to remind her of that past—lucklessly indeed for her, because she also has a present in which she is loved by a good and true man, whose love means a happy future if only she can rid herself of the drug-craving that enslaves her soul.

But she can't do this—falling back, instead, into her laudanum-hell when the good and true lover casts her off at a certain critical moment of dreadful shock—wherefore Mr. Peple kills Vasta Herne in the last act, giving her a dying scene unconscionably long drawn out and reeking with all the misery and horror possible to cheap theatricalism.

Before doing this, too, he has compelled a bronze Buddha in her library to mock her with malignant laughter most astounding on the part of a bronze Buddha squatted on her bookcase very much like Poe's raven on the pallid bust of Pallas just above Poe's chamber door.

It may have been all right for Poe's raven from the night's Plutonian shore to indulge itself in its lugubrious chant of "Nevermore—Nevermore" but I'm blest if we won't have to draw the line on the laughter of bronze Buddhas in stage offerings. Somehow or other it suggests a mechanical toy—and then one is tempted to chuckle at Buddha even as if he were a mere Billiken, though Billiken himself, with his keen sense of humor, is too shrewd to give us the audible laugh.

Against these things does Leslie Carter strive—O, the pity of it, when she is so well worth seeing and hearing in a play that gives her the least little bit of a chance. And she's in such excellent fettle now, too; slender, well-conditioned of body, alert of mind, vital with the artist's undying aspiration toward the best achievement, eager and ardent to weave her old-time footlight spells, and with her marvelous voice at its height of emotional expressiveness.

But all to no purpose. When Vasta Herne dies in the fourth act, she isn't half as dead as the play that bears her name. And, because of this truth, to dwell longer upon the so splendid yet so futile life-saving work done by Mrs. Carter is a sorrow's crown of sorrow.

I shan't do it—what's the use?

The supporting company is mediocre and all the characters in the play are false to life. Two of them, the "juvenile lovers," lugged in for comedy's sake, are appallingly silly.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Leslie Carter is still to be reckoned with. But she needs a play—ah, kind heaven, how sorely she needs a play!

PLAYGOERS' GUIDE.

OLYMPIC—"Little Nemo." Big spectacular production of cartoon musical comedy, presented by unusually clever company of comedians and singers.

CENTURY—Mrs. Leslie Carter in "Vesta Herne." Somewhat unconvincing and artificial emotional play along melodramatic lines. Star does good work.

GARRICK—H. B. Warner in "These Are My People." Premiere production of "A Little Brother of the Rich" Wednesday evening.

AMERICAN—"Checkers," Henry M. Blossom's racing comedy, with James Gleason in title role. Excellent presentation.

IMPERIAL—"Clothes," a sparkling society satire with sound and wholesome sentiment. Very cleverly played.

HAVLIN'S—"Sal, the Circus Gal." Interesting and picturesque drama, well presented, with Miss Vivian Prescott as its star.

NEW COLUMBIA—Vaudeville bill, headed by Hymack, the "chameleon comedian."

GRAND—Vaudeville bill, headed by Bowser, Hinkle and company, in "Superstition."

STANDARD — Watson's Big Show. Burlesque and vaudeville.

GAYETY—The Mardi Gras Beauties. Burlesque and vaudeville.

GEM THEATER—Delzar and Hwatacz, in head-balancing act; Harmolous Four in new songs; latest motion pictures.

ODEON—Monday evening, Amphion Club concert, with Mme. Schumann-Heink and Yolande Mero, soloists.

ODEON — Sunday afternoon, Symphony Orchestra popular concert, Max Zach, conductor.

BALLOON-DESTROYING GUNS TO BE TESTED THIS WEEK

New Weapons, Designed for Defense Against Aircraft, Placed at Sandy Hook.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A number of new guns especially designed to attack aerial craft have been installed at the Sandy Hook proving grounds, and interesting experiments will be conducted this week. A number of balloons are being inflated at Fort Wood, under the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island, and these will be floated at certain distances from Sandy Hook, where the gunners will endeavor to render them useless.

High officials of the War and Navy departments will be present to observe the tests, which will be the first of this kind to be made by this Government.

NEXT TO OLDEST MAN ON POLICE FORCE IS DEAD

Patrolman Dowling Succumbs to Injury He Received Making an Arrest.

As the result of an injury received in line of duty, Patrolman Thomas Dowling, 74 years old, next to the oldest man on the force, died at his home, 4549 Labadie avenue, Saturday night, never having recovered from an operation performed at Mullanphy Hospital Aug. 11, made necessary by a bruise he received when he fell while making an arrest.

Patrolman Dowling was known affectionately as "grandpa" in his neighborhood. He had served 39 years continuously on the St. Louis police force. He served under Gens. Harney and Shields in the Civil War, was with the Sixth Missouri Infantry on the campaign against the Indians in Arizona and California, and during the Civil War was in charge of the commissary department at the local arsenal. An arrow wound in his heel, received in an Indian fight, greatly troubled him not long before his death.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS
Gin Long Recognized by the Medical Profession as a Remedy for Kidney and Bladder.
For a long time the medical profession has prescribed gin in some form or other for kidney and bladder complaints. It is most effective when used in the following prescription: "Six ounces good pure gin, one-half ounce fluid extract buchu, one-half ounce Murax compound." These ingredients can be purchased separately and mixed at home or any good druggist can furnish the entire prescription. Take in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day after meals.
Prompt attention should be given the first symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble, such as pain in the back, rheumatic pains in the joints, soreness in region of the groin or hip, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes and other well-known signs. Chronic rheumatism, Bright's disease and diabetes develop quickly from the lesser forms of kidney trouble. * * *

CONSERVATION WORK IN CONGRESS.

One of the most important subjects for consideration at the approaching meeting of Congress is the new legislation said to be absolutely necessary to further progress in the policy of conservation of natural resources.

Mr. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, professes to be in sympathy with the conservation movement, but can do nothing effective without more legislative support. He declares himself unwilling to do anything arbitrary or without warrant of law. This position is entirely correct, and Congress should respond to the demand. It is hard to believe that the fierce controversy between Mr. Ballinger and Mr. Pinchot hinged on a point of law alone. Had they been agreed on matters of policy it seems strange that they could not agree on the legal procedure after it had been explained.

However that may be, Mr. Ballinger should be given what he asks for. The situation is critical and full of danger. Mr. Charles W. Eliot, president of the National Conservation Association, recently called attention to the inadequate protection afforded the public interest in the matter of coal lands and water power. Unless something is done, and that speedily, the public inheritance will be swallowed up by private monopoly.

Congress was organized at the extra session, so that the whole time from the opening day can be given to the work of legislation. And every Senator and Representative should be made to understand that this conservation legislation is one of the first duties imposed upon them by the public will.

Chancellor Houston says ignorance of Washington University is characteristic of St. Louisans. Why?

JIU JITSU AND THE CLUB.

There is an assumption that for police use jiu jitsu will be an improvement over the club. Perhaps it will. Jiu jitsu is a gentle art, knowledge of which includes such familiarity with the human anatomy that the practicer may break a bone or dislocate a joint by an easy twist. In its best development it is so effective that a man may be instantly killed through the simple dislocation of his spinal vertebrae and in its crude processes it renders unnecessary the West Indian police practice of shooting a man three or four times before he is arrested.

In Seattle last Friday night Prof. Tako Guro Ito, a Japanese jiu jitsu artist of illustrious record, beat George Graun in a match so effectively that the services of three physicians were required when the contest was over. Graun eventually was revived.

Jiu jitsu is a more dangerous weapon than the club. It is not a promise of greater safety for the public or of greater protection for the police. The trouble has not been with the club, but with the man behind it. Unless improvement is made in this latter respect the hapless public is given only the choice between a broken head and a broken neck.

The tariff issue must not be allowed to obscure State issues in Missouri, is the Republican machine edict. It cut the Republican plurality in Massachusetts from 60,000 to 8000, and that is reason enough.

THE CENSORSHIP OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Under the bill proposed by Councilman Schneiderhahn, all living picture films used in St. Louis would be passed on by the Chief of Police as censor. It would be his duty as official censor to veto all immorality.

Before an official censor is charged with this responsibility, he ought to be instructed in the nature of immorality. The cheap theaters may become as influential as the churches if they are not already so. Their most marked feature now is not indecency, as indecency is usually understood. On the contrary, their appeal for dimes and nickles strains the imagination of the film-makers in the attempt to create higher ideals of the heroic virtues.

This usually involves miscellaneous manslaughter. The sacrifice of human life is continuous. It is always sacrificed by the highest virtues, and the victims are unmistakable as villains it is necessary to kill at once to vindicate the morals of the plot. The homicidal hero is often photographed in uniform to show in advance that he is a specialist who can be relied upon to strew the curtain with as many shadowy corpses as the crisis calls for.

If this is to be censored out as immoral and demoralizing, the censor will not have much left to do after cutting it out of the films. The films may then be too short to hold common indecencies. But what would a censor in uniform do with the films in which the profuse bloodshed, offered as full value for a nickel, is all supplied by heroes, photographed in uniforms like his own?

REPUBLICANS NOMINATE WARNER.

Chairman Dickey of the Republican State Committee will probably not oppose the renomination of Senator William Warner. The announcement comes in semi-official form, and is more than reassuring to hesitant Republicans. The several conferences between Senator Warner and Gov. Hadley have been, report says, eminently satisfactory. The two have come to a complete understanding. They met in solemn council and cast the entire Republican vote of the State for that stanch Aldrichite, William Warner. Warner will permit Dickey to be re-elected State Chairman and Hadley has brushed Dickey out of Warner's path.

Those Missouri Republicans who are earnest adherents of the plan of nominating United States Senators by direct vote of the people will be overwhelmed with joy that they have been saved the trouble and the differences and rivalries of the bosses have been settled as such differences and rivalries should be settled—by the bosses themselves. A large field of candidates and unrestricted freedom of choice annoys the electorate and forces them to intellectual effort for which they are ill-fitted or which they might better be spared.

Not only have the bosses settled the question of the Warner succession, but they completed the job by a decision that there shall be no tariff wrangle in Missouri. It is unseemly. It has a flavor of Kansas with outcroppings of Minnesota and Iowa. Anything but the most profound harmony among Missouri Republicans will cause consternation in the midst of Frank Hitchcock, the Republican National Chairman. Such consternation might result in the paring down of the promised $50,000 which is to "keep Missouri Republican." Besides, how can a party irrevocably committed to Warner repudiate Warner's all but perfect record of 117 votes with Aldrich out of 119 times up? Warner's record must be swallowed with Warner, and, inferentially at least, the vote of Missouri Republicans was cast not only for Warner but for the Payne tariff. Missouri Republicans should be much obliged to the bosses.

The mine disaster at Cherry, Ill., is one of the worst on record. The number of missing men reaches 385, an appalling total. There are 1500 orphans in the town and in some cases all the breadwinners of families have been killed. The impulse to give sympathy the form of substantial aid was happily illustrated at St. Peter's Episcopal Church yesterday morning, when a collection was taken for the unfortunate survivors. That impulse should have free rein. When the immediate needs of the widows and orphans are supplied there will still be abundant opportunity to provide for future support and the education of the children. Full information of conditions in the mine and the stricken community may be expected today.

PARNELL'S FAME.

Mr. O'Connor's generous tribute to Charles Stewart Parnell is in curious contrast to the fierce abuse poured upon him when he was forced to give up his work.

But the case is not singular. A man's public usefulness can never be tested or measured by his private character. What Parnell did for his country will be remembered a thousand years. But how many, even now, when men of his own generation still live, can tell why he was cast out?

The unhappy scandal in which Parnell was enveloped in his last days, and which broke his power for work, will leave not a trace in the blessings which he procured for Ireland.

Murder trials make a useful safety valve for popular "nerves," and emotion in France. If it were not for such occasional outlets for the seething ferment of feeling dangerous explosions might occur.

THE BIG CHIEF IN TEXAS.

Not yet, we presume, is William Howard Taft aware of the profound impression he left behind in Texas. In ignorance he must remain until there is delivered to him the current issue of the Wharton Spectator in whose eloquent columns Covey M. Hughes, faithful postmaster (also general store, notary public, marriage licenses and fresh fruits in season) relates the truthful story of his meeting up with the Big Chief. For a brief three days early in November from Wharton to Corpus Christi, thriving metropolises of the dry farming districts where blooms the chaparral and the cactus, Covey M. Hughes was a flowing well of joy in a wide desolation of grief and disappointment.

Unaware of the furore his presence created, and the wildness of the curiosity to look into his benign countenance, Mr. Taft kept himself in seclusion. We revert to the chronicle of Hughes who says:

It was noticeable how little attention the leading officials from Texas received at Corpus Christi. It thoroughly demonstrates the inconsistency of Texas Democracy, though Corpus is a Democratic stronghold. On this occasion governors and congressmen were not noticed. The Democrats were running over them to see a Republican.

A Republican in Texas, dead or alive, is as rare as a day in June, or rarer. Any kind of a Republican can make a large or trust income by simply exhibiting himself in Texas; the brand doesn't matter—tame or wild, fat or of Falstaffian girth, thin or with Rockafellerian flanks, regular and standpat, crooked and insurgent, with pockets swag-bulged or flat as the Treasury after adjournment sine die—any brand of Republican can stir Texas from where Galveston reposes on the east like a bride on the bosom of the sun-lit Gulf to where El Paso's bridge but lately bent beneath its unaccustomed load of rotund dignity—any brand draws like Ketchel-Johnson fight pictures, wandering snake charmers or a monte game.

And yet Covey M. Hughes, of all the eager, hungry-eyed horde, was the only one to penetrate the wall of exclusiveness and puncture the cordon drawn about the Green residence at La Quinta where the "big soft" hand was recuperating. Covey, much impressed, writes in the Spectator:

I rode out to the residence in company with Cecil Lyon (I used to call him colonel, but he was just plain Cecil to me after meeting the Big Chief.) The Big Chief was playing golf with that expert from Austin. Perspiration was oozing out of him from every pore. He was completely absorbed in the game, absolutely unconscious to the outside world and all visible surroundings; just like a fellow who has bet his pile on a bluff in a poker game. One of his socks had dropped down over his shoe heel, just like anybody else's sock.

It was not the ooze of the perspiration that touched the heart of Texas; not the unconsciousness "to the outside world"; not the countenance weighted with the Ballinger-Pinchot job of refereeing. It was the sock. The loyal people of Corpus Christi did not see the President; it was not given to them to clasp the "big soft" hand. But there was a democratic aroma and atmosphere about it all. The exclusiveness with its unconstitutional and impenetrable horrors vanished before the sock that was "just like anybody else's." It was for them to show their admiration and the way was blazed by Hughes, whose assurance we have that since that time all Corpus Christi's distinguished sons wear their socks down over their heels.

What higher tribute could the Texans pay—Bailey Texans and anti-Baileys—than to deny themselves gartered stability! To one they have never seen—to one whose politics is the worship of strange gods—it is a touching compliment!

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

River Men's Hard Life.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While Mr. Taft is pledging his support in the cause of inland waterways transportation, it might be well if the manner of workingmen on the river boats were investigated.

The law compels railroads and other employers to respect the rights of its employes and yet the steamship companies on the Mississippi are allowed to treat their men in a way which would shame the savage slavery of the Congo.

On a river boat the trip takes from three days to a week and during that time the men are given no time to rest or sleep as the time taken to run between stations is used in the carrying of produce for the next station to the forward end of the boat. The landing places are steep banks, up and down which the men must carry from fifty to one hundred and fifty pounds, while the first or second mate are cursing them in the most revolting language.

Perhaps things would not be so horrible if decent food were served to the men, but that is also far from being the case. The men are fed in tin plates, without knife, fork or spoon and the food is the very cheapest trash to be had. The tin plates are set in a row on the floor, which is dirty and filthy, and then a negro dishes out the food and men can take or leave it, just as they like.

There would never be a white man found to go on the boats if the true condition of things were known. But once on, they must stay till they get back to St. Louis as the company will only pay at the end of the trip.

F. J. SWANSON.

Is This Tolstoy's Teaching?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Poor old Tolstoy! "My farewell message to the world * * * is my view as to how life should be framed in order that it may be henceforth what God wishes (evidently the church people's God, not God the Omnipotent Source and Law of All), and we wish. * * * Life is given us that it should be happy. The way to make it a certain chain of unbroken happiness is to live in love and not in hatred. We hear on all sides that life is miserable because of its bad institutions; we need only, we are told, to change the bad institutions into good ones, and life will change for the better. Do not believe that. * * * It is easier for the poor than the rich to be happy." In effect, keep the masses in poverty. Let them raise their children in the slums in squalor, misery and every want. Love and tell the people you love, but do not do anything to change bad institutions; do not do anything to construct good institutions or make good conditions. What more can any church, monarchy, government, private or collective interest want to keep in splendor or human misery? Is not this preached from every pulpit in Christendom? Love, sympathize, give to the worthy poor and punish the bad ones, but don't do anything to change institutions or conditions?

SIXTY.

A Word for O'Hearn.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While reading the Post-Dispatch I noticed that Mr. Sullivan rebukes the Chief of Police and Board of Police Commissioners which I think is uncalled for. It seems to me as a citizen of St. Louis since Aug. 11, 1872, that the present Chief of Police and Board of Police Commissioners are giving the citizens of St. Louis the best service we have had for the past 20 years.

In behalf of this young police officer to whom Mr. Sullivan refers, I will say I have known him for 15 years and his reputation has been good; his application for the position on the police force was signed by some of the oldest and most respectable business men in Northwest St. Louis. He tried hard to do his duty as an officer, which his record shows for the past two years—the length of time in service. Mr. Sullivan asked the Chief of Police this question: Is a policeman in line with his duty when he orders law-abiding citizens to move on? I, for one, say no; but I also say that there are lots of citizens that the police are tired of telling to move on—you can judge for yourself what kind of citizens you may call them. This young officer has brothers and sisters, also a mother; it grieves them very much to be kept in memory of this sad case.

Americans Honor Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The words of the good Mrs. Anna Schmidt are just as if spoken out of my heart. I think it would be very nice if some of the members of the German-American Alliance at the Schiller Festival on Nov. 29 would voice the gratitude of the German-American women that the Americans have taught to the Germans who came to this country, to apply practically his advice, "honor the women" and to treat their women folks so immensely better than what they used to in the old country. I was a servant girl in Berlin four years and had to work 17 hours every day. It is a riddle to me that every servant girl in Germany who has saved enough money to pay her steerage passage does not pack her trunk and come to these heavenly United States of America, a land which in real culture is above Germany. And now, a word to the German-American Alliance: I would advise its members in their attempt to introduce German culture in this heavenly country to cut out all the bad features of that culture, and especially that relating to the treatment of the weaker sex.

ROSA MAIBAUM.

Football and the Mothers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

For the sake of the mothers, I hope the School Board will abolish Rugby football, as at present played. While the boys and young men spend their time at this dangerous sport, the mothers, if at all sensitive and imaginative, spend long hours in agonizing suspense, and awake in the night filled with terrible forebodings. I am sure if that young fullback who recently rejected his mother's pleadings and his father's command to stop Rugby could realize this, as I have witnessed it, he would have obeyed. It is true that the game induces physical vigor and manliness, where it does not kill, but it would serve these ends if it were so changed as to be practically safe. If it cannot be made safe, let us take to the soccer or other style of game, and we shall have sport, manly exercise and all the rest of the good things found in Rugby, without its brutality and danger.

A FATHER.

SEEIN' THINGS.

MR. TAFT'S PROGRAM.

From the New York World.

In the course of his 13,000-mile swing around the circle Mr. Taft made an average of five speeches a day. Among the many measures he advocated are the following:

Increased power for the Interstate Commerce Commission, so that it shall have authority to regulate the issue of railroad securities on a sound basis, to determine the proper classification of freight, to institute of its own accord complaints of discrimination in rates, to compel connecting carriers to form through routes, and to fix and apportion rates among carriers.

The prohibition of railroads from holding in competing roads; the authority for railroads to make rate agreements with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the creation of a new court to pass on appeals from the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing rates.

The compulsory adoption by the railroads of additional safety devices.

The creation of a central bank of issue, controlling the Treasury reserve and prepared to guard against currency stringency.

Postal savings banks.

An amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, making it apply only to trade monopolies and not to railroad combinations.

The adoption of an income tax amendment to the United States Constitution, such tax to be resorted to in national emergencies.

Temporary suspension of the agitation for further revision of the tariff.

Ship subsidies for the development of the merchant marine.

Federal legislation against the boycott as well as governing the issuance of injunctions.

Further conservation of national resources.

Forest preservation.

Internal waterway improvements, but strictly according to the merits of each project considered in its rational bearing.

Legislation imposing restrictions upon the transfer of water-power sites to private control and providing for the fixing of rentals and the regulation of rates to be charged.

Reforms in the mineral land laws, so that the surface of the land and the coal and other mineral deposits shall be treated separately, with leases, on the royalty system of sales, to miners.

A congressional commission to investigate the law's delays in the Federal courts and to devise a system for securing quick and cheap justice in the Federal courts that shall serve as a model for the states.

Here is a program sufficient to keep Congress busy for the rest of Mr. Taft's administration.

EXPLORER HADLEY.

From the Glasgow Missourian.

Well, sir, we are all glad to have and hear of prophets and explorers and the closer they are to us the more interesting they become. First comes Cook, then Peary, and last but not least, Hadley, who has just explored and discovered the new country in the south of Missouri. Just think, in poor old Missouri, the fifth State in the Union! Well, we always did think the Democrats were too durn slow, anyway.

WHO GETS THE PROFIT?

From the Pineville (Ky.) Sun.

With breakfast bacon retailing at 35 cents a pound, this delightful dish is not found on the family table as often as it used to be. With live hogs selling at 6 and 7 cents a pound there must be a big profit for somebody before the cured meat reaches the consumer.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

FASHIONS FOR VILLAINS.

If someone has not already said that there are fashions for beggars, we say it now. We do not know that there are any fashions for beggars, but it sounds smart, and we all know that a thing that sounds smart does not have to be true. Only what is stupid has to be true.

However, beggars aside, there is a field to fashion closed. This is the back of that worthy the villain. Dress the villain in anything that villains have not worn since the beginning of time, and he is no longer a villain. We who follow the Western drama know Frank Campeau. Mr. Campeau is the baddest bad man we have ever seen. His Trampas in "The Virginian" was what kept the show on the road. But even the excellent Campeau doesn't look bad in khaki. We would not have believed it. Campeau, we would have said, would look bad in a cowl. To paraphrase Miranda,

There's nothing good can dwell in such a temple:
If the gentle spirit have so fierce a house,
Bad things will strive to dwell with't.

Nevertheless, we have Mr. Campeau on the local stage this fall so far temporized by khaki that he couldn't scare anybody. Yet this is the same Campeau who swaggered through "The Virginian" in his black shirt and shaggy chaps singing, until, as Mr. Wister says, "somewhere the bell of death was ringing."

Ten thousand cattle straying, etc.

The khaki makes the difference. It is as if a pirate had substituted at the masthead something pink or violet for his terrible black flag.

APPRECIATION.

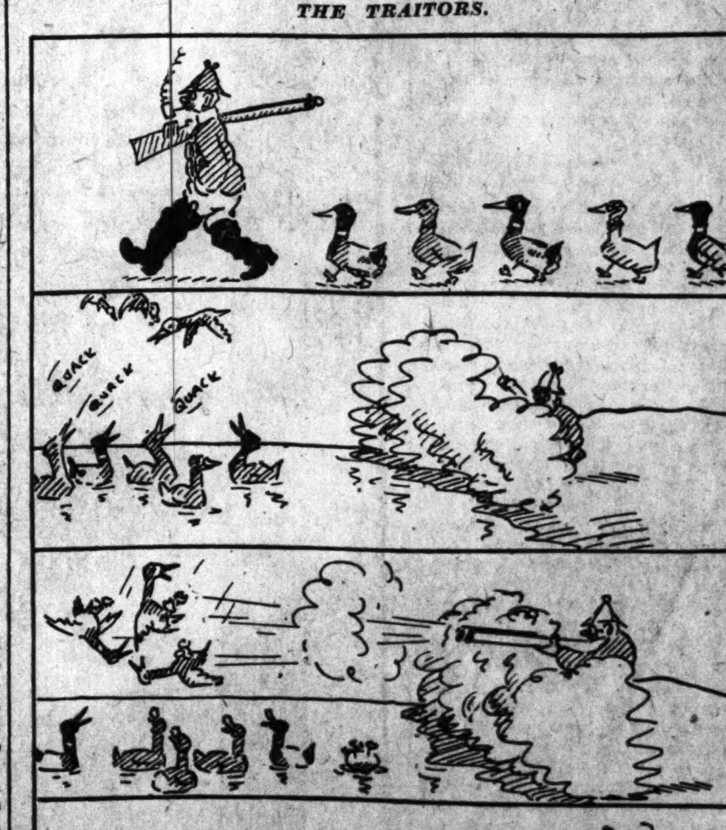

I fill this cup to Bartlett up, and may he rest in peace,
From Afric's sunny fountains to the happy isles of Greece!
Quotation! O, my rod and staff, my joy sans let or end,
With me abide, O handy guide, philosopher and friend!
—New York Mail.

Thou, too, thesaurus, needful for us: Nought thy glory dims!
How oft, perforce, we draw upon thy wealth of synonyms,
To give our fustian twaddle, jabber, balderdash and bosh
A wise, astute, shrewd, apt, acute and clever kind of wash!
—Chicago Tribune.

And Webster—gad! how often had we used those ordinary
And threadbare words which constitute our real vocabulary
Had it not been for peeping in that helpful composition
And dressing up (another cup!) pretended erudition!

Mr. Newland's assurance that the runner he has sent to seek Mr. Roosevelt is well, is this month's offering in unconscious humor.

PULLING THE PARALLEL

What Was Booked to Happen and What Really Occurred

By CLARENCE L. CULLEN.

THE COURTSHIP (in the novel).

HE: Shall I make a confession, dream-heart? Your eyes, then, haunt me always. They are so myriad-hued. Now they are deep and dark, brooding, like an autumn pool.

She: You must not. It is imagination. I pray you, say not such things. They disturb me strangely.

He: Ah, did you but know the ineffable happines you bestow upon me when you tell me that any mere words of mine are capable of—yes, even disturbing your screened soul, heart of mine!

She: You forget. It may not be. Our paths lie far apart. Why arouse within me—

He: Yes, yes! Go on!

She: But I, too, are forgetting. Dear, it may not be. Our destinies lie asunder. You make it hard, hard——

He: But, my empress, it shall be! Heaven ordains it! 'Twas Destiny that summoned me hither. And now that I have yielded to that imperious summons, I shall laugh in the teeth of any Destiny—tweak its beard—that bids me hence!

She: But in the years that are to be—the swiftly-flowing years—you would reproach me for——

He: Reproach you, spirit of my spirit, lamp of my very life! Ha! you little dream of what the drifting years have in store for you and me!

She: I am chilled. The cold, still light of the stars chills me. I must go. Adieu!

He: Adieu! Not au revoir!

She: Adieu, my friend!

THE COURTSHIP (in real life).

HE: I suppose nobody ever told you before that you have fine eyes, eh, Monica?

She: Oh, no, certainly not. You are the very first human being that ever noticed it.

He: Huh! Now I'm supposed to be sorry I spoke, eh? But you have fine eyes, all the same. Dandy eyes. I've often noticed them. What color are they, by the way?

She: Well, I like that! You must have noticed them an awful lot if you don't even know what color they are!

He: Well, I'll tell you, Monica, they change in color all the time—that's the answer. Didn't you ever notice how they change their color?

She: How absurd! I don't spend all of my time looking at my eyes in the glass, silly!

He: Look this way so's I can see what color they are now. Huh! on the level—now don't get mad, will you, Monica?—but they're green tonight!

She: Green? Now, wouldn't I be a ninny to get mad, as you call it, when I know that you're as color-blind as an owl!

He: Who, me? I guess not! I'm not blind in any way, don't you worry. Tell you one thing, Monica, I wasn't so blind when I first saw you that I couldn't pick you out as the one girl on the civilized globe for muh, all right enough!

She: Well, of all the sillies and simpletons I ever hear talk, you certainly are the——

He: Aw, say, hun, don't go pretending that you don't know it!

NO. 4.—BREAD—THE STAFF OF LIFE.

FIRST of all in the world's foods ranks bread.

When man first began his hunt for food the use of wheat was one of his earliest revelations and it has always held its place as the keystone in the structure of human food.

A wheat grain has a hard outside and a softer kernel, wherein is stored the nutrition. In grinding for flour the outside husk or bran is rejected.

The analysis of wheat shows it contains nutrition in the form of proteids—carbohydrates, starch and salts. As butter contains the necessary element of fat, bread and butter are readily seen to be an ideal combination.

Flours are graded according to color, that ranking the highest being the flour which makes the whitest bread.

There is much said about the superiority of Graham and whole wheat bread over the ordinary white bread.

Graham flour was made famous by a dyspeptic New Englander named Graham about 1830.

Having read in a book on food analysis that nitrogen was given a higher value than starch and other carbohydrates and that white flour contained less nitrogen in proportion than brown (or unbolted), he concluded that the coarse brown unbolted flour must be better for bread than white.

He found many who believed him, and who do so yet.

While the Grahamites claim that white flour has less nitrogen than brown, the excess nitrogen is in the form of bran, which, being incapable of digestion by man, tends to irritate the intestines.

However, these coarse flours do serve a purpose; for there are systems that require this very indigestible material contained in the flour, as it acts by its irritation on the digestive apparatus. Consequently, for some people Graham and whole wheat bread is better on account of the part they contain which is not digestible.

The Graham flour advocates argue that an All-Wise Creator made wheat to be used as we receive it and that the outside should not be discarded, but this sort of reasoning might as well be applied to orange and potato peelings and other indigestible and waste products.

Fresh bread is less digestible than that one or two days old, as it clogs while being chewed into a close mass less easily attacked by the gastric juices.

The next article will deal with the food value of EGGS.

REARING THE BABY

American and Japanese Methods Shown in Direct Contrast.

"IF the Japanese Should Rear Your Children" is the title of an interesting article in the November Delineator in which Adachi Kinnosuke tells of the system of child rearing which has prevailed for centuries in Nippon and which he considers superior to Western methods. The Japanese author draws the deadly parallel between the Western infant and the baby born to the kimono in several pages of comment of which the main points are these:

The American baby:

Cries most of the time.

Why?

Because his clothes torture him. He wears many unnecessary garments, including a tight shirt which hurts his arms and legs every time it is put on.

As soon as he can learn to talk the American baby says "I won't" to his father.

The American mother divides her time between worrying as to what the baby will do to the furniture, or the furniture will do the baby.

The American boy may go to school at the age of six. The public school he attends was the model of the one to which the Japanese boy is sent. But instead of fencing and jiu-jitsu he makes his heroes of football and baseball players.

The American parent would exclaim in horror at the idea of subjecting his six-year-old son to such experiences from which he safeguards him in every way. But Mr. Kinnosuke bids us remember Sparta and the heroes of just such a school.

The Japanese baby:

Hardly ever cries.

Why?

Because he wears just two garments, cut kimono fashion, one of which fits inside the other, so that he can be laid on his back into them both at once. The sleeves and skirts are very long, to keep his hands and feet warm.

He is given a bath in water at a temperature of 110 degrees Fahrenheit. No American baby could stand this.

The Japanese baby never says "I won't." Respect for authority is, according to Confucius, the foundation of society.

There is no furniture in Japan. The Japanese baby may crawl on the floor in his best frock and the frock will not get a spot on it.

At the same age the Japanese boy is introduced by his father to a fencing master. Clad in a single garment, he goes in his bare feet to the snow-covered back yard and has his first fencing bout.

At the age of 8 he is sent on a long night journey over the mountain to see his aunt. He must walk all the way, and his father arranges to have another boy meet him and tell him horrible ghost stories to try his nerve.

He also goes to a "school for cowards," where he has the most hair-raising experiences that can be devised; to teach him presence of mind, composure, or "face," as he calls it.

RECIPES FOR VEGETARIANS

Nuttolene a la Creme.

BREAK one-half pound of nuttolene in pieces with a fork or put through a ricer. Mix with it two hard-cooked eggs that have been put through a colander, add one-half teaspoon of salt. Rub two-thirds cup of pastry flour to a smooth paste with cold water. Pour gradually into one and one-half cups of boiling milk, stirring until smooth. Pour this over the well-beaten eggs, adding a little chopped onion and two teaspoons of salt. The sauce and nuttolene should be placed in a baking dish in layers with the sauce on top. Sprinkle with gluten or fine cracker crumbs and bake fifteen or twenty minutes or until bubbling all through and slightly browned on top. The sauce must be very thick as for croquettes.

Cranberry Bavarian Cream.

STEW one quart of cranberries; while, hot rub through sieve; measure half a pint and add to it one-half cup of granulated sugar. Have a quarter of a box of gelatin soaked in a quarter of a cup of water one hour; set the bowl over steam to dissolve the gelatin, then add the cranberries. Turn it into an earthenware bowl, set in a pan of ice water and beat until it is perfectly cold and begins to thicken, then add half a cup of rich milk and beat again, and at last add half a cup of whipped cream. Beat it thoroughly and turn into a mold and set on the ice to congeal. Serve with whipped cream and a few chopped almonds added.

Chestnut Soup.

CHESTNUT soup furnishes a delicious variety in the way of a white soup. Boil one quart of chestnuts just long enough for the shell and inner husk to be removed. Melt one heaping tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add two sliced onions, a few pieces of celery, fry without browning, then pour in one and one-half pints of water or vegetable stock, add salt, pepper and mace to taste; also the chestnuts. Cook gently for one hour. Beat up the yolks of two eggs and mix with them one cup of milk. Pour this into a large bowl and strain the soup into it, stirring all the time. Rub the chestnuts well through the sieve, add and return to the pan. Sprinkle in a tablespoon of chopped parsley. Make hot, but do not allow to boil. Serve with tiny pieces of fried bread.

Vegetable Souffle.

BLEND two heaping tablespoons of butter with two heaping tablespoons of flour in a saucepan over the fire, gradually add one cup of milk, stir till boiling, then add three ounces of grated Parmesan cheese, the yolks of two eggs, one tablespoon of chopped parsley and seasoning of salt, pepper and paprika. Remove from the fire and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Put some pieces of nicely boiled cauliflower into a greased mold, then some slices of seasoned tomatoes. Pour in the mixture, sprinkle on a few browned bread crumbs and bake for half an hour or until firm and risen. Garnish with water cress and serve immediately.

THE MAN IN LOWER TEN

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Lawrence (Lollie) Blakely of Blakely & McKnight tells the story. He goes to Pittsburg to take the deposition of Millionaire John Gilmore, whose name has been forged to four notes by Bronson. Gilmore is ill and cannot go to Washington for trial. McKnight is interested in Gilmore's granddaughter, Allison West, whose father was a "rapscallion" and a friend of the forger Bronson. Blakely is told someone was in a vacant house adjoining his home, who watched his disposition of the forged notes, and he changed them from his coat to his bag. During the night his coat is stolen from his berth. On the return trip he buys lower 10 in the Pullman and lower 11 for a woman whom he does not know, but who speaks to him while he is at the Pullman window. He finds lower 10 is already occupied and is changed to lower 9. Being nervous he goes out to the vestibule clad only in his pajamas and bathrobe. He sees a woman, with bronze hair. She flees from him with an extraordinary expression of horror on her face. He finds fragments of a telegram "—ower ten; car seve—." Seven is the number of his car. By mistake he sleeps in berth No. 7, and in the morning finds that his bag and clothes are missing from No. 9, while the clothes left by some man in No. 7 do not fit him. In the pockets are a gun metal cigarette case, cards bearing the name of Henry Pinckney Sullivan, and other articles. In the midst of Blakely's excitement over this discovery he meets in the aisle a "young woman in blue with an unforgettable face," whom he thinks he has seen elsewhere. The porter tries to arouse the man in lower 10, but finds that he is dead, stabbed through the heart. A card with the name, Simon Harrington, is found on him. Under the pillow of No. 7 an irrepressible amateur detective finds a narrow steel dirk. The pillow is bloody. A small black satchel belonging to the missing man contains a Russia leather wallet marked with the name Simon Harrington. In it is found money and three or four inches of fine gold chain, stained with blood. Blakely is practically accused of the murder when the train is wrecked. When Blakely recovers from unconsciousness the girl in blue is bending over him. His hand and wrist are broken. He and the girl leave the wreck and he learns that she is Allison West, Gilmore's granddaughter and Richey McKnight's flame. They stop at an empty farm house and have breakfast. Something happens there which Blakely does not understand. Miss West is plainly very much agitated. Blakely puts her gold purse in his pocket for safekeeping. While confined to bed in his home Blakely learns that lights have been seen in the empty house next door and that some person or persons there has been watching his house. His doctor tells of operating on one of the wreck victims whose skull was crushed. She had a wealth of bronze hair, he says.

CHAPTER XV.

The Cinematograph.

ON Monday I went out for the first time. I did not go to the office. I wanted to walk. I thought fresh air and exercise would drive away the blue devils that had me by the throat. McKnight insisted on a long day in his car, but I refused.

"I don't know why not," he said sulkily. "I can't walk. I haven't walked two consecutive blocks in three years. Automobiles have made legs mere ornaments—and some not even that. We could have Johnson out there chasing us over the country at five dollars an hour!"

"He can chase us just as well at five miles an hour," I said. "But what gets me, McKnight, is why I am under surveillance at all. How do the police know I was accused of that thing?"

"The young lady who sent the flowers—she isn't likely to talk, is she?"

"No. That is, I didn't say it was a lady." I groaned as I tried to get my splinted arm into a coat. "Anyhow, she didn't tell," I finished with conviction, and McKnight laughed.

It had rained in the early morning, and Mrs. Klopton predicted more showers. In fact, so firm was her belief and so determined her eye that I took the umbrella she proferred me.

"Never mind," I said. "We can leave it next door; I have a story to tell you, Richey, and it requires proper setting."

McKnight was puzzled, but he followed me obediently around to the kitchen entrance of the empty house. It was unlocked, as I had expected. While we climbed to the upper floor I retailed the events of the previous night.

"It's the finest thing I ever heard of," McKnight said, staring up at the ladder and the trap. "What a vaudeville skit it would make! Only you ought not to have put your foot on her hand. They don't do it in the best circles."

I wheeled on him impatiently.

"You don't understand the situation at all, Richey!" I exclaimed. "What would you say if I tell you it was the hand of a lady? It was covered with rings."

"A lady!" he repeated. "Why, I'd say it was a darned compromising situation, and that the less you say of it the better. Look here, Lawrence, I think you dreamed it. You've been in the house too much. I take it all back; you do need exercise."

We stumbled through the twilight of the staircase into the blackness of the shuttered kitchen. The house had the moldy smell of closed buildings; even on that warm September morning it was damp and chilly. As we stepped into the sunshine McKnight gave a shiver.

"Now that we are out," he said, "I don't mind telling you that I have been there before. Do you remember the night you left, and the face at the window? The street door was unlocked, and I examined every room. I was Mrs. Klopton's ghost that carried a light, and climb."

"Did you find anything?"

"Only a clean place rubbed on the window opposite your dressing room. Splendid view of an untidy interior. If that house is ever occupied, you'd better put stained glass in that window of yours."

As we turned the corner I glanced back. Half a block behind us Johnson was moving our way slowly. When he saw me he stopped and proceeded with great deliberation to light a cigar. By hurrying, however, he caught the car that we took, and stood unobtrusively on the rear platform. He looked fagged, and absent-mindedly paid our fares, to McKnight's delight.

"We will give him a run for his money," he declared, as the car moved countryward. "Conductor, let us off at the muddiest lane you can find."

When we got back to the car line, with Johnson a draggled and drooping tail to the kite, I was in better spirits. I had told McKnight the story of the three hours just after the wreck; I had not named the girl, of course; she had my promise of secrecy. But I told him everything else. It was a relief to have a fresh mind on it; I had puzzled so much over the incident at the farmhouse, and the necklace in the gold bag, that I had lost perspective.

He had been interested, but inclined to be amused, until I came to the broken chain. Then he had whistled softly.

"But there are tons of fine gold chains made every year," he said. "Why in the world do you think that the—er—smeary piece came from that necklace?"

I had looked around. Johnson was far behind, scraping the mud off his feet with a piece of stick.

"I have the short end of the chain in the sealskin bag," I reminded him. "When I couldn't sleep this morning I thought I would settle it, one way or the other. It was hell to go along the way I had been doing. And—there's no doubt about it, Rich. It's the same chain."

Just before we got off the car, I reverted to the subject again. It was never far back in my mind.

"About the—young lady of the train, Rich," I said, with what I suppose was elaborate carelessness, "I don't want you to get a wrong impression. I am rather unlikely to see her again, but even if I do I—I believe she is already 'bespoke,' or the next thing to it."

He made no reply, but as I opened the door with my latch key he stood looking up at me from the pavement with his quizzical smile.

"Love is like the measles," he orated. "The older you get it, the worse the attack."

At noon I left the office, and McKnight, always glad to escape from the grind, suggested a vaudeville. In sheer ennui I consented. I could neither ride, drive nor golf, and my own company bored me to distraction.

Johnson, two rows ahead, went to sleep. McKnight prodded me with his elbow.

"Look at the first box to the right," he said, in a stage whisper. "I want you to come over at the end of this act."

It was the first time I had seen her since I put her in the cab at Baltimore. Outwardly I presume I was calm, for no one turned to stare at me, but every atom of me cried out at the sight of her. She was leaning, bent forward, lips slightly parted, gazing raptly at the Japanese conjurer.

For that first moment there was nothing but joy at the sight of her. McKnight's touch on my arm brought me back to reality.

"Come over and meet them," he said. "That's the cousin Miss West is visiting, Mrs. Dallas."

But I would not go. After he went I sat there alone, painfully conscious that I was being pointed out and stared at from the box.

After a little I glanced over. Mrs. Dallas was talking to McKnight, but She was looking straight at me. She was flushed, but more calm than I, and she did not bow. I fumbled for my hat, but the next moment I saw that they were going, and I sat still. When McKnight came back he was triumphant.

"I've made an engagement for you," he said. "Mrs. Dallas asked me to bring you to dinner tonight, and I said I knew you would fall all over yourself to go. You are requested to bring along the broken arm, and any other souvenirs of the wreck that you may possess."

The Cinematograph was finishing the program. The house was dark and the music had stopped, as it does in the circus just before somebody risks his neck at so much a neck in the Dip of Death, or the hundred-foot dive. Then with a sort of shock, I saw on the white curtain the announcement:

THE NEXT PICTURE IS THE DOOMED WASHINGTON FLIER, TAKEN A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE SCENE OF THE WRECK ON THE FATAL MORNING OF SEPT. 10. TWO MILES FURTHER ON IT MET WITH ALMOST COMPLETE ANNIHILATION.

Then the letters were gone, and I saw a long level stretch of track, even the broken stone between the ties standing out distinctly. Far off under a cloud of smoke a small object was rushing toward us and growing larger as it came.

Now it was on us, a mammoth in size, wih huge drivers and a colossal tender. The engine leaped aside, as if just in time to save us from destruction, with a glimpse of a stooping fireman and a grimy engineer. The long train of sleepers followed. From a forward vestibule a porter in a white coat waved his hand. The rest of the cars seemed still wrapped in slumber. With mixed sensations I saw my own car, Ontario, fly past, and then I rose to my feet and gripped McKnight's shoulder.

On the lowest step of the last car, one foot hanging free, was a man. His black derby hat was pulled well down to keep it from blowing away, and his coat was flying open in the wind. He was swung well out from the car, his free hand gripping a small valise, every muscle tense for a jump.

"Good God, that's my man!" I said hoarsely, as the audience broke into applause. McKnight half rose; in his seat ahead Johnson stifled a yawn and turned to eye me.

I dropped into my chair limply, and tried to control my excitement. "The man on the last platform of the train," I said. "He was just about to leap; I'll swear that was my bag."

"Could you see his face?" McKnight asked in an undertone. "Would you know him again?"

"No. His hat was pulled down and his head was bent. I'm going back to find out where that picture was taken. They say two miles, but it may have been forty."

"This way," I motioned to McKnight, and we wheeled into the narrow passage beside us, back of the boxes. At the end there was a door leading into the wings, and as we went boldly through I turned the key.

Everywhere we stepped we were in somebody's way. At last we were across, confronting a man in his shirt sleeves, who by dots and dashes of profanity seemed to be directing the chaos.

"Well?" he said, wheeling on us. "What can I do for you?"

"I would like to ask," I replied, "if you have any idea just where the last cinematograph picture was taken."

"I am sorry I can't tell you," he replied, more civilly. "We get those pictures by contract. We don't take them ourselves."

"Where are the company's offices?"

"New York." He stepped forward and grasped a super by the shoulder. "What in blazes are you doing with that gold chair in a kitchen set? Take that piece of pink plush there and throw it over a soap boax, if you haven't got a kitchen chair."

I had not realized the extent of the shock, but now I dropped into a chair and wiped my forehead. The unexpected glimpse of Alison West, followed almost immediately by the revelation of the picture, had left me limp and unnerved. McKnight was looking at his watch.

"He says the moving picture people have an office downtown. We can make it if we go now."

The people at the downtown office of the cinematograph company were very obliging. The picture had been taken, they said, at M——, just two miles beyond the scene of the wreck. It was not much, but it was something to work on. I decided not to go home, but to send McKnight's Jap for my clothes, and to dress at the Incubator. I was determined, if possible, to make my next day's investigations without Johnson. In the meantime, even if it was for the last time, I would see Her that night. I gave Stogie a note for Mrs. Klopton, and with my dinner clothes there came back the gold bag, wrapped in tissue paper.

New Football of Warner Fails to Halt 1905 Style

St. Louis U.'s Defense Was Not Adapted to Halting the Old Plunging Plays of Oklahoma.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

THE St. Louis University football team tried to stop Oklahoma's 1905 offense with its own 1909 defense Saturday afternoon and failed most decisively. Had St. Louis switched and met the boys from the Southwest at their own style of game, the battle might have been even.

Coach William Warner of the local team will have to teach his players much between now and Thanksgiving day if he wishes to defeat the Carlisle Indians in the closing game of the schedule. It is hardly likely the Redskins will use football that is four years old; but still, the St. Louis men need preparation to meet any style of attack. They were prepared to break up forward passes, onside kicks and other forms of the open style of play Saturday, but Oklahoma just plowed through the line, using the old delayed-pass time after time to throw the opposing line men off their guard.

Oklahoma has a powerful football team. It was heavier than reports had made it. Probably it outweighed the local team, though in appearance they seemed equal in bulk. The visitors were in much better condition, however, and the rapidity with which they ran off their plays quite took the Blue and White men off their feet.

Field Favored Oklahoma.

Probably the heavy field favored the Oklahoma team a trifle. It certainly was more favorable for old-style football than for the new and shifty offense taught by William Warner. Still, the local team made a sorry showing in defense and it was more because it did not know how to stop the plays than because it was not strong enough to stop them.

It was actually surprising to see the Oklahoma players tear through the heavy St. Louis line, making the ten yards time after time in two downs and often sending a man through for 10 or 15 yards all alone. Many times, on the third down, with two or three yards to gain, Oklahoma called for a play through the line and they seldom failed to make the necessary distance. They never tried a forward pass and used the on-side kick but twice. They seldom had to punt and the only reason they didn't pile up a big score was because they used such a rough style of play and did so many illegal things, such as holding and charging before the ball was passed, that they suffered heavy penalties.

Though Oklahoma continued throughout the game to use plays through the line and reject the forward pass and onside kick, the St. Louis team never changed its style of defense. The secondary defense played at least ten yards back of the line of scrimmage. The lineman, tackles and ends were spread out, leaving holes in the line wide enough for a wagon to pass through.

How Sooners Fooled St. L. U.

Under these conditions, Oklahoma used the delayed pass, forming for an end run, then sending a man through the line on the opposite side. Often this man was not touched by an opponent until he reached the secondary defense, 10 yards back.

Because of the success of the forward pass the previous week, Warner relied on it for this game and it was far from satisfactory. It was generally spoiled before it was even started by the ends or tackles on the opposing side breaking through and either downing the man with the ball, or making it impossible for him to shoot it with any accuracy. The few times that the passes were correctly made, St. Louis was able to make big gains.

There are but two more big football games for this city. Next Saturday the Vanderbilt University team from Nashville, will meet the Washington eleven at the Stadium, and on Turkey Day Carlisle will play St. Louis U. at League Park.

Washington will be in fine shape to meet the men from Tennessee Saturday. They rested all last week as their Saturday game with Carleton College was called off. Coach Cayou gave them a bit of light work only, but beginning Monday he will send the players through gruelling practice and scrimmage for three or four days.

Vanderbilt has had good football for the past four years, ever since Dan McGuigan, the old-time Michigan star, took command. Last Saturday Vanderbilt played Ohio State and lost by a score of 5 to 0. Ohio State is by far the strongest team of Ohio, so Vanderbilt must have a powerful eleven to hold it to one touchdown.

A year ago Vanderbilt gave the Pikeway team a decisive beating, but Cayou thinks he sees a chance for victory this time.

On Thanksgiving day the Washington team is booked for a game with Arkansas, but the battle will take place in Little Rock, and as this team has already defeated the Oklahoma eleven by a decisive count it seems Cayou's men are in for a hard fight.

In spite of the rain Sunday morning, fast soccer was witnessed in the different league games Sunday, as the fields dried out nicely.

The St. Leos and Blue Bells had a close battle at Athletic Park. So interesting did the game become in the second half that Jack Tully, goalkeeper for the St. Leos, swung his right on the jaw of the linesman who refused to answer Tully politely. Tully was banished from the game.

The Blue Bells put up a much faster show in the second half of their game than they were able to do in the opening period of play and managed to get a tie with the St. Leos, 1-1. The St. Leos were lucky to escape a defeat when Tully was ruled out of the game, leaving the side with only ten men.

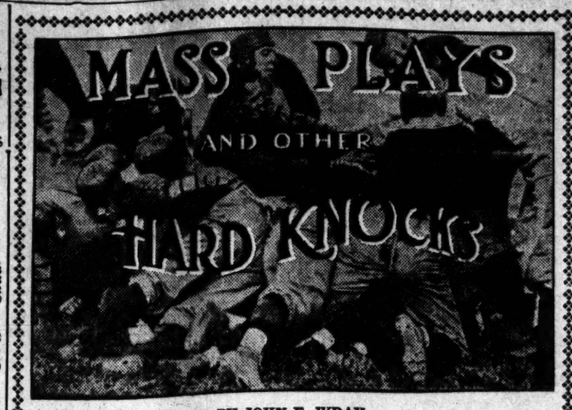

The Innisfails proved comparatively easy for the St. Teresas, in the opening game at Athletic Park, the "Saints" winning 3 to 0, which boosted the St. Teresas into a tie with the Blue Bells for the lead, each team having a total of three points.

The new Association Football League of St. Louis opened Sunday with two fast and well-played games at Kulage Park. A fairly large crowd was out. In the opening contest the Knights of Father Matthew broke even, each team scoring one goal.

The Holy Names furnished a surprise in the second game. The Holy Names had fine team work and "dribbled" the ball well. In fact, at times the short passing game used by the Holy Names had the Duwell A. C. team, their opponents, guessing. But the Holy Name forwards could not shoot for goal accurately and Flood was the only man to send the ball between the uprights. The Duwells got one goal in the first half and one in the second by fast rushes, which gave the team the game 2-1.

There was plenty of scoring in the Amateur League games on the C. B. C. campus. The C. B. C. team swamped the Holy Rosarys 5 to 1. In the second game the St. Roses won from the St. Teresas 5 to 4. Fifteen goals in one afternoon does not speak well for the league's goal keepers, unless the C. B. C. forwards are exceptionally accurate with their boots.

The SS. Mary and Josephs, leaders in the Carondelet League, maintained their position at the head of the standing by defeating the South Fourth Street Merchants 4 to 1. In the second game the Virginia A. C. won from the Royals 1 to 0. Both games were played at Carondelet Park.

BY JOHN E. WRAY.

THE glamor of "championship," which always lends a luster and zest to any sporting contest, will halo next Saturday's football games. East and West will solve their problems as to the best teams in their respective sections when Yale and Harvard and Michigan and Minnesota meet.

Incidentally, although there seems no opportunity of testing this statement in battle, the championship of the American university world will be settled. For Yale at present is, in the minds of the best critics who have seen this forceful machine in action, the greatest, or, perhaps, the greatest under the new conditions, that ever represented Old Eli. If Harvard wins from Yale it will get unstinted credit as a team without a peer in the history of the crimson's football campaigns.

Yale Favored.

MANY, however, believed that a Yale victory is a foregone conclusion. Certainly the Harvard victories have not been as convincing as those of Yale. Eli's goal line has not been crossed this season and the team has never been in extremity during the year. On the other hand, Harvard has been scored against, and has several other times had the aliens raging at its goal line, threatening to win. Brown was only halted on the one-foot line, and again was on the two-yard line. A great team should not have let Brown come that close except through accident.

The West's Tangle.

FOR us out here in the "provinces" —that's what they think of our football territory out here—that Michigan-Minnesota game has almost as keen interest as the big Eastern affair. For Michigan gave the strong Penn team its first taste of defeat in two years. Should Minnesota win from the Wolverines by a decisive score, it will put the West into favorable comparison with the big 'uns of the East. Against Lafayette, which beat Princeton, Penn scored a tie; and Michigan, on that sort of figuring, is a better eleven than Old Nassau's Tigers.

Notre Dame's Claim.

A QUEER angle develops in this Western championship in the instance of Notre Dame. This eleven is unfortunately not sufficiently recognized to give it a proper standing in the West, but its eleven whipped Michigan and did it well. It, therefore, ranks considerably stronger than Princeton.

Should Michigan down Minnesota, Notre Dame would be entitled to the Western championship and would rank above every team in the country in strength save Harvard and Yale—that's on figures, again.

Passing of "Square Dan."

DAN STUART'S death marks the obliteration of another of the famous lights of the world of sport, developed in the days of big names and, for the times, of bigger deeds. In these times of remarkable word—purses offered for the Jeff-Johnson fight, there seems to be no pugilistic figure among the promoters who stands out as did Stuart, "square Dan," who always kept his word. Today legislatures have banned the fight game and balked promoters, but scarcely more than it was in past decades. Now magnates sit down and fold their hands—if we except James Coffroth of California—and toss up the sponge when legislatures oppose a fight. In Stuart's day, when there was no State that would permit a finish fight, he went to Nevada and induced the commonwealth to change one of its laws. Furthermore, when he brought Corbett and Fitzsimmons together at Carson City, he had canvassed 14 states before he found a Legislature that would consent.

Stuart was a man of action and perseverance. Like all of this kind in every walk of life, he went to the front and remained there.

They say Stuart's death has killed the racing game in Hot Springs. As it it were possible to make a dead one deader.

Shall the Old Order Change?

IN New York today the election of officers for the National A. A. U. body takes place. It is worthy of notice, for it marks the period when James E. Sullivan, so long the inspiring genius and the executive brains of the organization, announced his intention to quit the office of president. Undoubtedly a strong effort will be made to induce Sullivan to remain in the game, for he and none other is completely master of the many strings by which this truly monster organization is handled. In fact, one is almost at a loss to find a man who can replace him. Sullivan has had charge of almost every athletic event of national consequence that has been held in this country in years.

He has been criticised for holding office, owing to his connection with a big sporting goods concern. But it has been, in a measure, this very connection that has given Sullivan the world-wide experience that makes him so fit for the office.

If Sullivan steps out, he will probably be retained in the office of secretary, where he would still be on hand to keep the associate officers from having brain-storms.

John O'Connor, president of the Western division of the A. A. U., faithful servant of James E. for many years, will be present and cast a vote for the honor of St. Louis and the district. John has been mentioned as a candidate for the presidency of the league. But his business interests, his remoteness from New York and the presence in the field of candidates of more influence, makes his selection improbable.

We've all been to the mat with Mr. Sullivan for mistakes made in the past, but when all's said and done he's the best man to be in charge of the A. A. U. He's not little or petty, at any rate. And he's capable, besides.

$100,000 Offers for the Big Bout Growing Common

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—As the time draws near for the opening of the bids for the championship fight between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, offers are being received nearly every day from Western fight club promoters, who claim they are willing to hang up fabulous purses for the men to battle for.

In less than twenty-four hours Jeffries has received three of these offers, two of them being for $100,000, while the other is the top price so far offered, which is a purse of $140,000. The latter offer was sent by the directors of the Nampa Athletic Club of Idaho, who claim they are confident of getting the consent of Gov. Brady to hold the battle.

The two other offers of $100,000 come from Cripple Creek, Colo., and from Pueblo, Colo., the latter offer reaching Jeffries at 1 o'clock this morning. With these big offers at hand, it certainly looks now as if the fighters will have an excellent chance of battling for a purse not smaller than $100,000.

POLICE STOP JEFF'S TAXI, BUT CHAMPION ESCAPES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—James J. Jeffries, undefeated champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, Jack Johnson dissenting, fled yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, at the prospect of a visit to the police station.

Alex Clydekerr, 145 East Forty-ninth street, driver of a taxicab, had Jeffries as a "fare."

Bicycle Patrolman Felix Hoffman stopped the taxi at Seventieth street and Broadway and arrested Clydekerr for speeding. The chauffeur told the patrolman Jeffries was in his cab and would not stand for police meddling. Hoffman didn't care who was aboard, and the chauffeur began to call the policeman names and Jeffries jumped out of the cab, and, when told what the trouble was, asked:

"I don't have to go to the station, do I?"

"No."

"Then here's your money," said he handing a $5 bill to the chauffeur; "you can keep the change. You may need it." then he went away as fast as he could with a friend who had been riding with him. At the station house a charge of disorderly conduct was also entered against the chauffeur.

Michigan, Weak on Defense, Profited by Penn's Fumbles

BY CHARLES CHADWICK,
For Four Years Guard and Tackle at Yale.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—With the echoes of the great Yale-Princeton battle still ringing in our ears and drowning out the sound of everything else, it is worth while to turn for a moment to the consideration of that sensational game at Franklin Field, in which Michigan at last came to its own. After four years of trying, the Westerners have made good their claim to be reckoned with the East. Michigan's team was a whirlwind, stronger on offense than on defense and so fast in running off plays that Penn was swept clean off its feet in the first half to the tune of 12 to 6. In the second no scoring was done. It is true that the erratic Quakers seem to have reached their lowest ebb in this game, that Hutchinson was almost the only man who seemed to be able to do anything, that Penn's fumbling was frequent, that one of Michigan's touchdowns appears to have been made as the result of a fumble and that Penn lost a chance to score by fumbling a forward pass on the one-yard line. In other words, Penn slumped.

Michigan's Strong Points.

But, on the other hand, Michigan's team ran off four forward passes from a fake kick from placement that never once failed. This was perhaps their most sensational play. They used also criss-crosses and end runs, in which Quarterback Wasmund and Magidsohn and Allerdyce, halves, excelled. Magidsohn made a 40-yard run for the second touchdown.

Penbrook at left guard and Conklin at left end played fast football, as, indeed, did all the Michigan team. They seem to have put up a typically Western game, a fast winning game and a quick and varied offense—the kind of a game that tells against a losing team. And a great kicking game. Allerdyce easily outpointed Hutchinson.

On defense Michigan was typically Western also. Hutchinson's 12-yard plunge through the whole team for a touchdown was one evidence of the fact noticeable throughout the game that on defense the Westerners still have something to learn from Eastern methods. They apparently do not devote the same care to their defensive formations that Eastern teams do, but rely mainly on their rapid offense.

Weak Defense Spells Defeat.

This fact helps to explain Michigan's defeats in past years, as it explains her 12-to-6 victory last Saturday over what we must admit was a strong Eastern team. The fact that Penn has been erratic all season does not detract from Michigan's credit. The first touchdown, made after a recovered fumble and within one minute of the start of play, was very pretty football. A handicapped Penn from the start and must have put courage into the heart of those youngsters who for four years past have journeyed far to meet defeat in our own territory and who, plucky, kept at it in spite of their having, until last Saturday, not once crossed an Eastern goal line.

DARTMOUTH, hitherto unbeaten, went down at last before Harvard, but not until the second half of the game in which both teams used each other off by heavy plunging, old-fashioned football. Ingersoll outpunted Minot, but the Harvard ends played brilliant football in smothering the catcher. Harvard's rush line outplayed Dartmouth's. In fact, without displaying her hand at all, the Crimson gave evidence of possessing boundless reserve power. In this respect Harvard rivals Yale.

Reserve Force Harvard's Strength.

Although scored upon, Harvard has never been really put on the defensive. It is almost as though the great Crimson team was holding itself back, waiting for Yale. Dartmouth's score came at the very end of the game. A forward pass, a muffed punt and a long outside kick gave Capt. Tobin the chance for a place kick from the 35-yard line. But Harvard cared as little for that score as though it had been done by some member of the scrub team in an afternoon of practice.

Harvard regards everything but the Yale game as practice and the interest centered in how the team was playing rather than in what was the score.

MIKE WALKER IN LINE FOR PRAISE

Too much credit cannot be given Coach Walker for the great victory his team won over the McKinley High team Saturday, thereby taking a safe hold on the interscholastic championship. At the beginning of the season the I-Yell lads were not conceded a chance, as there was nothing to it but McKinley.

Walker issued a call for candidates and in the squad of 30 athletes that showed up for practice, "Hank" Billings, Howard Haynes and White were the only three that ever played before. It was a gloomy outlook for Central, but Mike began his task by teaching the rudiments of the game, and finished with a championship eleven.

From the first game of the season against St. Charles High School until the struggle last Saturday, Walker was aware that there was only one way to defeat the strong McKinley team and that was to build up a defense that could withstand the South Siders' charges. Most of the time he labored in that direction.

No less than five times did McKinley have first down with Central's 15-yard line, but their vicious attacks were repulsed by an impregnable defense. With the ball no more than 12 inches from the goal in the second half, it took two charges by Volimar, the great fullback, and Zachritz to bring it across that short distance.

Walker Tolkacz, the sterling McKinley center, who missed the goal that would have tied the score, must be given credit as being the best goal kicker in the Interscholastic League. Out of 22 chances, this young athlete booted 20 goals, which is without question a creditable performance. The two goals that he missed, one in the Soldan game and the one in the Central, were close.

Three games remain to be played before the completion of the schedule, two of which will be played on Turkey day. Manual and Western will meet next Saturday, while on Thanksgiving McKinley meets Manual at Sportsman's Park, and Central with Smith at League Park.

LIPTON MEETS N. Y. CLUB'S DEMANDS FOR CUP RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—It was said at the Lambs' Club, where Sir Thomas Lipton has been a guest of the trustees of the Larchmont Yacht Club, that he has come to an understanding with the New York Yacht Club regarding the conditions under which another race for America's Cup may be sailed for in 1911. His next challenge, it is understood, will be so framed as to meet with the approval of the governors of the New York Yacht Club.

COCHEMS' ELEVEN GAINS STRENGTH

Eddie Cochems, Barnes University's football coach, is seeking new worlds to conquer and is trying hard to get a game with Washington U. or some strong out-of-town eleven, to be played a week from Saturday afternoon.

The Missouri School of Mines eleven from Rolla, Mo., meets Barnes Saturday afternoon at Sportsman's Park. The Miners defeated the St. Louis University eleven at the start of the season, but Cochems, after Saturday's game, quit drawing comparisons as the result of what teams have been able to do in games with Warner's men.

Cochems really expected a hard game Saturday, as, on comparative scores, the Barnes eleven seemed in for a hard battle. The William Jewell team had a very nice record.

The Barnes boys simply swept the William Jewell team off its feet. That the light William Jewell men could play football was demonstrated when they got to working the forward pass on Cochems' men in the second half.

The Barnes team at last seems to have developed team work which was lacking earlier in the season. Cochems has given the team some splendid plays and in the game next Saturday his men will be instructed to show everything that they know.

Big Brannon has a broken rib, but a "little" thing like that, which did not even keep him out of the second half of Saturday's game, will not stop him from playing against Rolla. Brannon strengthened Cochems' team greatly. Allen Mepham has a broken nose, but he will also work.

BOXING BRIEFS.

Stanley Ketchel has signed to meet Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Colo., for 10 rounds at a show to be held by his club in the early part of December. Ketchel is guaranteed $5000 for his share, whether he wins or loses.

Harry Lewis, besides being matched to meet Frank Klaus for six rounds at the National A. C. of Philadelphia on Nov. 27, has also consented to take on Tommy Crawford, the California welterweight, for 20 rounds at the Dayton (O.) Gymnastic Club on Nov. 19.

Jimmy Gardner and Mike (Twin) Sullivan are not going to fight at the Armory A. A. of Boston, but instead will clash in a 12-round bout at a club in New Haven, Conn., on Nov. 26. Harry Lewis and Terry Martin will challenge the winner.

Jack McGuigan, manager of the National A. C. of Philadelphia, is still trying to clinch a bout between Al Kaufman, the California heavyweight and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, but the chances are that he will not succeed.

After considerable trouble Fight Promoter Jimmy Dime of Pittsburg has finally secured an opponent for Sam Langford, the colored pugilist. Mike Schreck, the Cincinnati heavyweight, is the man. They fight six rounds in Pittsburg, Nov. 22.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Joe Jeanette, the colored American heavyweight, won another fight in Paris on Saturday night. He was awarded the decision over "Big" Ruschel, an Australian fighter. Jeanette gave Ruschel a severe beating, but was unable to put him away.

DR. ROLLER AND GOTCH READY FOR MATCH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—Dr. Benjamin F. Roller, the Seattle athlete will be within striking distance of the world's wrestling championship Monday night for the second time when he meets Frank Gotch, holder of the title.

The men met here last spring and though it took the Iowa champion more than half an hour to get the first fall he was never in a very dangerous position. Roller, however, did some very clever work and now declares he has improved in strength and skill since that match. He says his weight is 213 pounds.

Among the spectators tonight will be Sybesko, the European wrestler, who will probably wrestle Gotch some time this winter.

Tower to Meet Matthey.

Tower and Matthey will meet in the straight rail Millard tournament match at Peterson's Hall, Monday night. Kremke, with a record of six games won and none lost, is leading.

Alley Strikes

There are close to 1000 individual entries in the city handicap tenpin tourney, which opens Saturday. Each one of these will have to be gone over, the handicaps figured on the averages given by the bowlers. In many cases the Handicap Committee will have to personally investigate the averages to see that some bowler is not "fudging" for a big allowance.

Too liberal handicaps, based on incorrect or low averages, would cause a strong protest. The entry list closes Saturday night.

Handicaps will not only have to be figured for the individual, but for the two-men and five-men competition, as well. Then a schedule will have to be made out. The tournament will last several weeks.

In spite of the fact that he registered the high average Sunday in the individual tournament on the De Soto Pine alleys, "Bobby" Roberts lost the odd game of his match with Homer Sanders, Sanders taking six out of 11 games. Roberts' total was 2039.

In the other matches Con Fuerman took eight out of 11 from Vaughn and Gus Schmitt annexed seven out of eleven in his tilt with Sunkel.

Brief Bits About Sport

John J. O'Connor and Florence Curran, of St. Louis, officers of the W. A. A. U., are in New York to attend the annual election of officers of the National A. A. U. If James E. Sullivan refuses to again accept the presidency, O'Connor will be a candidate for the position.

The condition of Raymond Austin, quarterback of the Ohio Wesleyan eleven, who sustained concussion of the brain in a game Saturday, was said to be much improved Sunday night. It is expected that he will recover.

James Clark lowered all records from 10 to 20 miles in New York, Sunday afternoon. His time for the 20 miles was 1:58:27 3-5. The former record was 2.07:11.

Pat Dineen won a professional marathon race at New York, Sunday afternoon. His time was 2h. 48m. 18 2-5s. Six men started and five finished.

The Pilgrims, soccer team, was able to get a tie with a picked team of New York amateurs in Brooklyn, Sunday. Each team scored two goals.

The recovery of Midshipman Earl D. Wilson of the Navy football team, who had his back broken, will be slow, if he recovers at all. His condition Sunday was not as good as on former days.

The Detroit American League team defeated the Almendares nine of Cuba at Havana Sunday, 4 to 0. The Cubans cheered when Mullin shut their team out and allowed them but four hits.

It is said that there will be over 500 horses at the new Juares racetrack, which will open at Juarez, Mexico, on Dec. 1. Mars Cassidy will act as starter.

Sutton Off for Tourney.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—George Sutton left here last night for New York, where he is to take part in the tournament for the national 18.2 balk line title Nov. 22 to 29. Mr. Sutton will stop off at Pittsburg, Buffalo and Utica on his way to play exhibition matches. He is at present the 18.1 champion and in an exhibition game yesterday averaged 71 3-7, running 500 in seven innings. Beside Sutton there will be Slosson, Demarest, Cutler, Cline and Cassigrol in the tournament.

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE OF CATARRH

S. S. S. cures Catarrh by removing the cause from the blood. It so thoroughly purifies the circulation that there is nothing left to inflame and irritate the mucous linings of the body, which is the most prominent and dangerous effect of Catarrh. As long as the mucous membranes and tissues are kept in a state of inflammation and irritation by an impure and infected condition of the circulation, Catarrh will remain. Its disagreeable symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, mucous dropping back into the throat, headaches, watery eyes, difficult breathing, and even stomach disorders and weakened health, cannot be permanently relieved until the blood is purified. Local applications alone can have no real curative value, because such treatment does not reach the blood. Sprays, inhalations, lotions, etc., are valuable only for their cleansing and antiseptic effect, but if depended on alone Catarrh sufferers will find a cure impossible. Nothing equals S. S. S. for curing Catarrh. It goes down into the circulation, gets at the root of the trouble, and removes every particle of catarrhal matter from the blood and enriches this vital fluid so that instead of irritating the different mucous portions of the body, it nourishes them with rich, health-giving properties. Then the symptoms begin to pass away, and Catarrh is permanently cured. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free.

ST. LOUIS BROKERS HEAR OF $1,000,000,000 COPPER TRUST

Leading Producing Concerns Are Being Merged by J. Pierpont Morgan.

A billion-dollar copper combination, to include the leading copper producing companies of the United States, with the exception of the Calumet and Hecla, is being formed under the auspices of J. Pierpont Morgan, according to special dispatches received by Charles McClure Clark & Co. of St. Louis from their Wall street correspondents Monday.

The new industrial trust, the New York authorities state, will rank second to the $1,500,000,000 Steel Corporation, which Morgan also formed. For nearly two years the price of copper metal has been declining steadily from a record price of 26 cents a pound to its present level of 13 cents. One of the causes ascribed is the overproduction of the Amalgamated Copper Co., American Smelting and Refining Co., Phelps, Dodge & Co., and other large interests.

Since the death of H. H. Rogers, the master hand of the $200,000,000 Amalgamated corporation, the Amalgamated and the American Smelting and Refining Co., have been virtually in a trade war, according to the New York advices, and J. Pierpont Morgan has finally stepped into the breach.

As a result of the consolidation reports, the shares of all the copper companies have risen on the Boston and New York exchanges, Amalgamated, American Smelting and Refining, Utah and other copper securities advancing from $3 to $10 a share within a few days.

EAST ST. LOUIS NOTES.

The body of William A. Woodworth of Newport, Ky., who killed himself in an East St. Louis rooming house Thursday morning by inhaling gas, was sent to Muncie, Ind., his former home, for burial Sunday afternoon, accompanied by Leslie Woodworth of Muncie, a brother.

Frank I. Marks, Paul Kahn and Saul Pattiz, merchants on Collinsville avenue, were arrested Sunday for having their places of business open. They are cited to appear before Justices Baugh, Bell and Brady on Wednesday. All were released on bond. The arrests are the result of a movement for Sunday closing.

A mass meeting will be held in National City Monday afternoon to decide whether the city will become a part of Centerville Station Township. The meeting has been arranged at the request of the Judiciary Committee of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors. Mayor Bob Monroe and City Marshall W. S. Burroughs are both opposed to the consolidation.

Hubert Groichaus, a grocer, of 401 North Twenty-fourth street, is at Henrietta Hospital with several scalp wounds and probable internal injuries as a result of being struck by an East St. Louis & Suburban Railway car at Twenty-fourth street and Louisiana boulevard late Saturday night.

Mrs. Bruce Campbell, Mrs. E. S. Coddington and Mrs. J. P. Metzen returned from Chicago Sunday, where they have been attending a convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Don't be always hunting for a favorite piece of music; one of Rhodes-Burford's mahogany music cabinets will keep it in its proper place. $3.75 to $9.50, and our easy terms go with it.

COPPER STOCKS AGAIN ACTIVE AND STRONGER

Majority of Issues Are Fractionally Higher; London Market Is Irregular.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15, 12:30 p. m.—The feature of the forenoon trading was the pronounced strength in the industrial stocks, especially the Coppers. All the prominent issues in this division were sharply advanced, the gains ranging from a small fraction to 3 points.

International Harvester common was particularly bullish, scoring a gain of 3 points from the opening.

Steel common advanced ¼, Colorado Fuel and Anaconda ¾ each, Amalgamated Copper and Lead 1¾ each, and Smelting 2 points. Consolidated Gas was at parity.

In the rails division B. & O. and B. R. T. advanced ⅛ each, C. & O. ¼, Atchison, St. Paul and Rock Island common ½ each, the Harriman Pacifics ¾ each, Missouri Pacific and Reading 1¼ each, Erie declined ⅛, Pennsylvania ¼, New York Central and Great Northern ½ each.

Canadian Pacific had not opened up to noon. Northern Pacific, Rock Island preferred and Wabash preferred were unchanged.

Trading was above normal, the total sales to noon amounting to 492,600 shares.

Copper stocks were the feature of the initial trading at the opening of the stock market today. As on Saturday, they were the strongest on the list. Smelting advanced ⅜, Anaconda ⅝ and Amalgamated 1 point.

Steel common gained ¼, Colorado Fuel ⅛ and Laclede Gas receded ⅛.

Utah Copper, which was so bullish on Saturday, opened at a decline of ½ point. Most of the issues in the railway list opened fractionally higher.

Great Northern advanced ⅛, B. & O. and St. Paul ¼ each, M. K. & T. and Union Pacific ⅜ each, C. & O. and Mo. Pacific ½ each, N. Y. Central and Wabash pfd. ⅝ each. Denver & Rio Grande advanced ¾ point. Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Northern Pacific, L. & N. and Reading were unchanged.

Price movements in the railway stocks during the first half-hour's trading were irregular. Pennsylvania sold ex-rights. Rock Island gained ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅜ and Western Union was strong, being 1¼ above its closing on Saturday. Reading, Southern Pacific and C. & O. declined ¼ each, Union Pacific and N. Y. Central ½ each. Trading in the rail issues was very dull except in N. Y. Central.

The Copper stocks were very active and continued to move upward. Amalgamated and Smelting advanced 1 point each and Lead ⅜. Steel was a trifle weaker.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The stock market opened today with active trading and prices generally higher than last week, but with a sprinkling of declines in influential stocks. Amalgamated Copper was the feature, with sales of 14,000 shares at 92@93, compared with 91 on Saturday. Wabash preferred and Western Union rose 1 and Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, American Smelting and Anaconda large fractions. Pennsylvania sold at 132⅞, with the rights of subscription to the new stock subtracted, compared with 140½ on Saturday.

Numerous buyers made their appearance for the minor copper stocks following the sensational opening in Amalgamated Copper, and that group rose strongly. There was some active bidding also for the Gould stocks, but the rest of the list was inclined to sag. Amalgamated Copper was subjected to realizing sales. National Lead rose 1, American Smelting 1¾. Tennessee Copper, International Harvester, United States Reduction preferred 1½; Missouri Pacific 1¼ and St. Louis Southwestern, Kansas & Texas and Utah Copper 1. The last-named stock subsequently reacted 2 points. Great Northern preferred, Colorado & Southern and Inter-Metropolitan preferred yielded 1 and Pittsburg Coal 2 points.

When prices began to yield selling orders decreased and prices hardened. Chesapeake & Ohio, Kansas City Southern, Colorado Fuel, Allis-Chalmers preferred and American Ice rose 1, Hocking Coal 1¼, Granby Mining 2, Western Union 2½, Wells-Fargo 5 and Federal Mining 10. Atlantic Coast Line declined 2 and United Railways and Investment preferred 1¼. Amalgamated Copper started upwards again before noon, rising 2¾. Bonds were irregular.

The rise in the market was interrupted for a time by the spectacular break of 8 points in American Sugar. When support began to show for that stock, and it rallied 3 points, the bulls began to mark up the copper stocks again. Amalgamated Copper advanced 3¼, Reading 2 and Great Northern preferred, New York Central and Railway Steel Spring 1.

Standard railroad stocks and U. S. Steel forged to the front in the buying movement after midday. Union Pacific and Reading advanced 1 and 1¼ respectively. The copper stocks continued to reflect the rumors in circulation regarding combination. Anaconda jumped 1⅜ and International Harvester 3 points. American Sugar and Met. Street Railway were down a point.

The market closed firm. A break of 7 points in American Sugar preferred weakened the common stock again in the final hour and checked the advance in the general market. Kansas and Texas preferred and American Telephone had gained 1 and Western Union 4. Minneapolis & St. Louis fell 1¼ and American Beet Sugar 1.

MONEY MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The following table shows the high and low for call loans during the past week in New York, and for loans and discounts:

The present steady tone of the St. Louis money market is looked for to continue up to the middle, if not the end, of December.

At the same time it is believed that the inquiry from mercantile sources may very likely see a further expansion within the time indicated, although no material changes in quotations are looked for.

Today's quotations were 5 to 6 per cent in the extremes for all maturities. Call money was quite dull.

	Call.	Time.	Discounts.
Monday	5 @3¾	4¾@5	5 @5¼
Tuesday	5½@4½	4¾@5	5 @5½
Wednesday	5½@4	4¾@5	5 @5½
Thursday	5½@3½	5 @5½	5 @5½
Friday	6 @4¾	5 @5½	5 @5½

The position of call money at which the bulk of business was done last week is contrasted with the previous weeks in the following:

	11-2.	11-5.	10-29.	10-22.	10-15.
Monday	4	4	4½	4¾	3¾
Tuesday	4½	4	4½	4	4¼
Wednesday	5	4	4	4¼	4¾
Thursday	5	3¾	4	4¼	4½
Friday	5	4	4	4¼	4¼

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—Locally the money market is very quiet. The tone is firmer, the natural consequence of the stronger conditions in New York. There is no urgent outside demand for money, and, on the other hand, banks are not in the market to any extent for outside loans. Money brokers are not anticipating any active business the balance of the year. What business is done is likely to be confined chiefly to renewals. On call, money rules from 5@5½ per cent. Year money 4¾ per cent.

TRADING ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE RATHER NARROW

Transactions Limited to Railways Preferred and Bank of Commerce.

United Railways preferred and Bank of Commerce had a practical monopoly of the trading at the forenoon session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange Monday. Both issues were higher, the former selling at 68¾, against 68¼ Saturday, and the latter 224¾, against 224½.

Quotations on Candy common wavered between 19¼ and 19⅝. St. Louis Union was advanced to 402 bid and 410 asked. The final quotation on Railways preferred was 68¾ bid, against 69 asked. The miscellaneous list was very dull.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—London cables show that cane is firm, but little offering; Java, 13s 3d.

Beet is steady at the advance; Nov., 12s 8¾d; Dec., 12s 8¾d; May, 12s 8¾d.

Local refined sugars are quoted on the basis of 5.15c, less 1 per cent for standard granulated, except by Federal, which is taking a limited amount of business at 5.05c.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 15.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	9,000	5,700	8,900
Hogs	12,500	9,300	9,200
Sheep	2,000	3,400	1,800
Horses	1,450	1,200	1,000

NATIVE CATTLE—No choice long-fed natives were received today, the bulk of the arrivals consisting of Kansas and Westerns that lacked finish. The best steers offered brought $6.75 and were steady. Kansas steers sold at $4.75, against $4.90 last week. The market on steers was quiet with an easier tone apparent on all save the very choicest kinds. Heifers in moderate supply and packers bid lower. Cows not plentiful and the market for them held steady. No change was noted in either veals or stock cattle. Choice veals brought $8.25 for top.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—About one-third the day's receipts consisted of Southern cows billed direct to a packer. This left around 100 loads on sale, mostly Arkansas and Mississippi stock that could be classed as canners and cutters. Desirable steers were few and far between, as no Texans or Oklahomans were among the receipts. The market opened fairly steady and was moderately active. Packers could have handled a reasonable supply of good steers to advantage had the stock been on hand.

HOGS—A good supply arrived as the receipts were about the largest for Monday in several months. The quality of the hogs was not good as there was a marked scarcity of good grade hogs with weight. The market in general was on a 5c higher basis, but pigs and lights were 10@15c lower and rather slow sellers as the demand was not very urgent for them. The top of the market was $8.15, but real good heavy hogs would have brought 5@10c more. The bulk of the good hogs sold at $7.90@8.05. Packers were much better buyers than they were at the close of last week. Best lights of less than 160 pounds sold at $7.50@7.90, and best pigs weighing less than 110 pounds brought $7@7.40.

SHEEP—The supply was small and good kinds were hard to find. The market was active and prices on a steady basis with the close of last week on all desirable offerings. Good to choice lambs brought $7.25@7.50, good fat mutton sheep, $4.75@5; fair grades, $4.40@4.50; stockers, $2.50@3.50; bucks, $3@3.50, and old cull ewes, $1.25@2. The supply was cleaned up in a hurry and buyers were greatly disappointed at not being able to secure several times the number on sale.

RAILROAD NEWS AND GOSSIP

Railroad earnings continue to show large gains over last year, total gross earnings of all railroads in the United States reporting for the month of October being $32,031,948, an increase of 9.2 per cent over last year. The same roads a year ago reported a loss of nearly 6 per cent as compared with October, 1907, while now there is a gain of 2.7 per cent. Nearly all roads included report gains, a number of them for considerable amounts. In the following table is given earnings of United States roads reporting for the month of October and practically the same roads for September and August, with the increase in comparison with the preceding year:

	Gross Earnings. 1909.			Per Cent.
October	$32,031,948	Gain	$4,263,218	9.2
September	46,990,353	Gain	4,024,222	9.4
August	44,302,928	Gain	4,600,880	11.3

Baltimore & Ohio's statement of earnings for September is a noteworthy addition to the road's long list of improving monthly reports. September gross of $7,767,838 is the best ever reported for that month, exceeding that for the same month in 1907, the previous best, by over $300,000. Net after taxes of $2,7[illegible] likewise is a record, comparing with a previous high of $2,[illegible] established in September, 1906.

Says B. L. Winchell, president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific: "I cannot see anything on the horizon to interfere with present prosperity or the immense railroad traffic, and full volume of traffic for the railroads means increased earnings and increased earnings of the railroads resulting from big crops means prosperity all round."

WHEAT MAINTAINS A STEADY RANGE

Prices Gain Fraction Despite Extremely Bearish Statistical Feature—Cables Firm.

Foreign steadiness in the face of the heaviest world's shipments on record and other bearish statistics created enough demand in the local wheat market Monday to maintain a firm range of values. The market was dull and trading light. There were few offerings, however, and prices, during a greater part of the day, showed fractional advances.

World's shipments of 17,336,000 bu exceeded any previous volume and compared with 12,800,000 bu last week and 9,344,000 bu a year ago. Russia and America were the most liberal contributors, the former exporting over 8,000,000 bu and the latter more than 6,000,000 bu. There was an increase of almost 3,000,000 bu in ocean passage stocks.

In spite of these factors, Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅜d higher. This resulted from the fact that of the heavy world's shipments, only a matter of 5,000,000 bu or so was headed for the United Kingdom. The strong demand in Liverpool for all Manitobas and other spot wheat also helped to uphold values there.

The local market started out somewhat higher as a result of the steady cables. Further buying was caused by the domestic December situation. Receipts in all positions were again heavy, but a strong cash demand existed and premiums were firmly maintained. Stocks showed practically no increase. The general opinion was that the light contract stocks and large open interest, which tend to make short covering difficult, form a strictly domestic proposition and that foreign factors cut little immediate figure.

There were further good rains and the crop outlook is satisfactory. For the first time in months there was a decrease—one of 688,000 bu—in the domestic visible, and this also encouraged the demand. Toward noon prices were steady at fractional gains.

December wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.05⅝ and advanced to $1.06¼. May wheat opened ⅛@¼c higher at $1.06⅛, and advanced to $1.06⅝. July wheat sold ¼c higher at 96½c.

LETTER SAYS MRS. WOODILL WAS KILLED BY ANOTHER GIRL

Mysterious Communication Tends to Clear Mystery of Maryland Tragedy.

EASTON, Md., Nov. 15.—A clew to the actual circumstances of the killing of pretty Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill at St. Michaels on June 19, which was attributed by many to Robert Emmet Eastman, who committed suicide when about to be arrested, may have come to light.

Foreman Willey of the Coroner's jury, in sorting old papers, found an unopened envelope addressed to "Mr. Radcliffe, undertaker." It contained an unsigned letter dated and postmarked at Chicago, June 29, the envelope bearing the card of the Saratoga Hotel Restaurant of Chicago.

"Bob did not kill the girl," the letter reads, "but it was as he says. She was killed by the other girl in the party. She was not murdered, but it was the result of a fight. The girl who used the bottle had no idea that the girl would die. She is now prostrated in a hospital. Mrs. Woodill did not die at once, and was alive but unconscious when Bob took her from our boat to his house. It was not murder, but an unfortunate accident. The girl who struck the blow does not even know that she was in the fight."

Detectives have been detailed to look for the mysterious writer of the letter.

CANNON DECLARES WITNESSES WILL REFUTE RIDDER

Speaker Withholds Names of Those Who Heard Offer of the Presidency.

ALIENATED BY METHOD

Intimate Friend of "Uncle Joe" Tells of Publisher's Stormy Interviews.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 15.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon says he will not enter into any controversy with Herman Ridder of New York, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, relative to the Speaker's charge that Ridder offered him the support of the publishers for the presidency in exchange for the enactment of a bill reducing or abolishing the tariff on print paper.

"Thank God," exclaimed Speaker Cannon, when he read Ridder's denial of the charge, "I was not alone when he called. I am not in the habit of being alone under such circumstances. Others heard what he had to say."

Speaker Cannon declined to say who was present at the time, or what other publishers were in Washington with Ridder in the interest of the bill. He said he dealt as extensively with Ridder in his Bloomington speech as he cared to.

From an intimate friend of Speaker Cannon it was learned that the Speaker was not impressed with Ridder's methods of undertaking to force the print paper bill through Congress. Ridder, this man said, called at the Speaker's office and asked for an interview with "Uncle Joe." This was granted, but Ridder, instead of taking advantage of his opportunity, began abusing Congressman Daizell, who happened to be present, entirely ignoring Speaker Cannon. Later he called and had several interviews, but he finally left Washington in a "huff."

Cannon Changed Attitude.

It is said Cannon was inclined at first to use his influence to reduce the tariff on print paper, having been appealed to by some of his publisher friends. Ritter's attitude, with the subsequent attacks upon Speaker Cannon, and the introduction in the Democratic platform of a plank denouncing him as a Czar, is said to have been one of the reasons for the failure of the publishers to get what they demanded.

That Speaker Cannon intends to wage a finish fight upon the insurgent Republicans in Congress is apparent from the tone of his Bloomington speech, in which he paid his respects to Cummins and Dolliver of Iowa, and La Follette of Wisconsin, whom he denounced as flaming firebrands of reform and revision downward. He scored the insurgent senators for coming into the House of Represenatives to organize it against him, and declared that they voted for high tariff schedules on many items, and that La Follette, especially, demanded a high duty on wood pulp, which is produced in large quantities in Wisconsin.

Speaker Cannon seems to be convinced the failure of the publishers to get free print paper is the direct cause of the attacks that are being made upon him. He has been forced, he says, to have an expert stenographer with him when he speaks, to escape misrepresentation in the daily papers. He defended the franking system, saying that it is now about the only means members of Congress have of getting the truth to the people all the time.

Says He Has Helped Papers.

"Uncle Joe" declares that he has been a friend of the publishers, having been a member of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads in 1873 that reported the bill establishing the pound rate on newspaper matter. He says that as the result of that law the publishers receive yearly a bounty equal to the loss to the Treasury of $60,000,000.

"When some of the newspapers thunder about the franking privilege," he said in his Bloomington talk, "which the mail weighings have shown cost the Treasury less than one-quarter of 1 per cent of the revenues, and which furnish the only chance that a member of Congress has to get the actual facts all the time to the people under his frank, I sometimes think what gall they have, and wonder whether all of them know what they are thundering about!"

After scoring Ridder, "Uncle Joe" said that the tariff bill had to be a compromise, because it was impossible to get any other kind of a law when so many different sections were represented by congressmen who desired to look after home industries. He then attacked Senators Cummins, Dolliver and La Follette.

"Think of Cummins and Dolliver voting for a 15 per cent duty on hides, and La Follette, in the same bed, thundering in his paper and accusing everybody of graft who voted for the 15 per cent duty on hides," he said. "At the same time, owing to the conditions in Wisconsin, freight rates and so on, $7 a ton duty on print paper was no more than sufficient to enable the industry to live in his State, and $3.75 a ton duty on print paper was not enough.

Gets Back to Scripture.

"One of the principal reasons of the Iowa contingent in refusing to vote for the bill was that it only reduced by $2.25 the duty on print paper, and yet by voting against the bill, they voted to keep the Dingley rates of $6 a ton—they voted to let the Dingley law stand. And yet great is Diana of the Ephesians. Cannon, Sterling and all those who voted for the bill—anathema maranatha. Cummins is the man, you know, who gets the plaudits.

"Take the barley and barley malt industry. The barley malt industry journeyed from New York to Minnesota. Under the Dingley law there was a duty on barley malt of 45 cents, and a duty on barley of 30 cents. I take that just as an example.

"Mr. Payne is from New York. He did just as I would have done. He wanted the barley malt industry to flourish in New York, and he thought he could get it if Canadian barley were allowed to come in, and the duty on it were made 15 cents instead of 30, and the duty on barley malt was reduced from 45 cents to 30 cents. He came into the House and made a very plausible statement. It seems to me that probably his proposition had some merit, but, presto change, what happened?

"La Follette, that flaming brand of reform and revision downward, grew redheaded and his voice was raised for 30 cents on barley and 45 cents on barley malt."

RIDDER SAYS HE IS A FOOL OR "UNCLE JOE" IS A LIAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.

"EITHER Ridder is a fool or Cannon is a liar, and on this particular occasion Ridder is not a fool," was the way Herman Ridder, publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung and president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, replied to the Saturday night speech of Speaker Cannon at Bloomingto, Ill., in which Cannon charged that Ridder and a deputation of publishers offered to aid him to win the presidency if he would help get the duty off print paper.

Mr. Ridder denied emphatically that he ever made an offer of the support of the press of the United States for Cannon's presidential candidacy or that he ever visited Cannon with any deputation from the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

THE THIEVING SUGAR TRUST

Its Inside Story

With their crime-stained, gold-cluttered fingers sunk deep into the money sacks of the United States Treasury, the cunning, colossal thieves of the Sugar Trust have finally been brought to bar—caught red-handed and branded with their guilt.

While all this giant larceny was going on secretely, the weak-spined guardians of the nation's funds stood aside, sheeplike and stupid, or conniving with the robbers, year after year.

Then one man of iron will and steel brain offered himself as a stop-gap.

He also offered a big stack of startling, tangible facts to the Chief Executive of the Republic.

These were proofs, incontrovertible, ugly proofs, of the American Sugar Refining Company's crimes that he handed to the then President.

What happened? Nothing—immediate.

But something is happening NOW.

Something that will shake the business world to its foundation—the exposure of a theft of $30,000,000, with the full knowledge of certain members of the Treasury Department and the cunning aid of a conscienceless political clique.

You have only to read the black story of the American Sugar Refining Company to see it all—

How the trust reduced the railroads to a condition of abject slavery, receiving concessions and cash rebates amounting to many millions of dollars;

How many more millions were flicked from the government by a contemptible system of short-weighing unworthy of a common pickpocket;

How the facts relating to this system of big and little theft were discovered and brought to the attention of the United States Attorney-General;

How indictments were brought against the trust and its subsidiary companies;

How, by the payment under fire of $1,000,000 in one lump sum, the trust admitted its guilt and was compelled to begin the restitution of the money it had stolen during many years.

It is not a pretty story—this record of a great trust standing indicted for grand and pretty larceny before the public bar.

Nor is it a muck-raking story.

It is a fact-story, photographically accurate, telling of the Sugar Trust's lawless and unscrupulous means of victimizing the public for many years.

Now, however, the trust is brought to an accounting before the Federal Courts of Justice and the bar of public opinion.

It is a wonderful story, fascinating in its manner of telling and written with simple, newspaper directness by Charles P. Norcross in the DECEMBER COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE.

Nothing quite as sensational has been printed since Lawson exposed the Standard Oil and its methods.

It concerns every man, woman and child in the land, because these deviltries of the Sugar Trust have been shrinking not only the national pocketbook, but the purse of every family.

Take up the COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE at the nearest newsstand—read this vivid arraignment of the most colossal, most fiendish, most daring band of thugs, pickpurses and slimy scoundrels ever brought to well-merited disgrace before the calm figure of justice.
